WAR LOOMS AS FOE'S CRIMES ARE BARED

ALLIES READY FOR GREATEST OF WAR DRIVES

Foch Prepared to Give Germany Speedy Death Blow In Event She Refuses to Sign Treaty

Most Decisive Campaign In History Is Planned—Outlined Scheme Includes Three Routes of Invasion

By HENRY WOOD.

(Copyright 1919 by the United Press.)

PARIS.—If Germany refuses to sign the treaty the allied armies will launch immediately one of the greatest and most decisive campaigns in history.

While the public generally is inclined to think of an advance into Germany under present conditions is little more than a triumphal parade, in which no resistance will be met, Marshal Foch has been obliged to be prepared for any emergency.

The allies would move forward with every detail worked out for a campaign extending from the Dutch to the Swiss border—designed to give Germany a death blow in the shortest possible time—against the maximum force which the unified allied countries know the Germans might throw into action in a crisis.

The allied campaign, according to the highest French critics and authorities, would embrace three great routes of invasion, designed to break down all possible defense, seize the most important points in Germany, and cut that country completely in two.

The allies' left wing consisting of the Belgian army, with the British protecting its right flank at the Cologne bridgehead, would drive eastward from Dusseldorf into the network of railways of which Essen, only a day's march away, is the center. With the British army in position to execute a flanking movement, from the south, should this be necessary, Germany would lose at the outset not only her great Krupp ordnance and munitions works at Essen, but the entire surrounding mineral basin. This would open the way immediately to Minden, where Germany has constructed a great fortress for defending her plains from entrance through West Phalia. Without doubt Germany would make her supreme resistance against the allies' left wing before Minden.

MAIN FOE RESISTANCE

Simultaneously, however, the allies' right wing, composed exclusively of the bulk of the French army, would drive out from the Lorraine front, where they have the advantage of a great depression before them extending for 80 miles, and which would lead them directly up to Germany's big southern fortress at Ulm. Here the allied military authorities figure that Germany would have to make her principal resistance along the Danube between Ulm and Ingolstadt.

With these two actions in progress, the big decisive stroke would be smashed home by the allies' center, composed of the American army at Coblenz, the French tenth army at Mayence and the French army now in the Bavarian Palatinate. The allied center has before it the great route of invasion of Germany by way of the valley of the Main, which flows into the Rhine below Frankfort. The Main valley leads directly across Germany into the mountains on the Bohemian border.

Although the meandering of the river makes this route long, it is only a ten days' march across Germany at this point. This drive would separate completely the northern from the southern half of Germany. German military strategists have long considered this Germany's most vulnerable point and for that reason figured that in the event of a French invasion southern Germany must be defended by Austria. But with Austria no longer able to aid her, Germany's weakest point would be thrown open and exposed to the allies' thrust

MOST VITAL POINT.

Eventual linking of the allies' center with Bohemia would give them complete control of Silesia, which, after Essen, constitutes the region most vital to Germany's existence. As a consequence, caught on the north by the British fleet, on the south by Bohemia, cut in two by the allied armies and with her two great productive centers lost, Germany would be completely crushed.

Whatever resistance Germany might be able to offer to the allies in their drive along the Main valley would, according to French military authorities, be in the vicinity of Wurzburg, where the rocky, forest covered mountains of Rhoen constitute a strong natural barrier which the Germans long ago recognized and fortified accordingly However, with the Americans descending on Wetzler from Coblenz, the French tenth army on Hanau from Mavence and the French eighth army on Wurzburg from Mannheim, the allies would have in their possession all the leading routes and starting points for the capture of the massif of Rhoen. Back of this position is another natural defense in the forest of Thuringe, and still back of that is the big fortress of Erfurt, built to defend the entrance to the plains of Saxony.

While this central and principal action would be in progress, the allied left wing would continue its drive from Essen in the direction of Minden, and the right wing from the fortress of Ulm would push on toward Nordlingen

Against such a plan of action Germany, in its present disorganized state without a fleet to protect it from the British navy, without sufficient artillery or other material, would be unable to put up a serious defense. Nevertheless, the allied military authorities are taking no chances and the campaign as planned provides for the overcoming of the maximum resistance the Germans might make

WOMEN OF OHIO WIN BALLOT IN 1920 ELECTION

Legislature Ratifies National Suffrage and Also Provides Presidential Vote

COLUMBUS—Ohio today was lined up with those states that have endorsed the national woman suffrage amendment, following the action of the Ohio legislature late Monday in voting overwhelmingly for it. The vote in the house was 73 to 6 and in the senate 27 to 3.

The house followed this action up by passing, 72 to 5, the Fouts-Reynolds presidential bill which will enable Ohio women to vote for presidential electors in 1920, regardless of whether the national suffrage amendment gets the required endorsement of 36 states.

The senate followed suit, 27 to 3.

The six representatives who voted against the national amendment were Backowski, of Cuyahoga; Helfrich, of Crawford; Huber, of Mercer: Mulcahy, of Henry; Scott, of Hamilton, and Shy, of Pike. All these voted against the Fouts-Reynolds bill except Shy, who didn't vote.

The only votes against the national amendment and the Fouts-Reynolds bill in the senate were cast by Senators Bellew. Emmert and O'Brien, Hamilton county.

NO OPPOSING VOICE

Following the reading of a message from Gov. Cox transmitting the federal amendment to the legislature. Representative Beetham, Harrison county, Republican floor leader, introduced the resolution to indorse it. Beetham spoke for exactly fifteen seconds in support of it and then Representative Hopple, Cuyahoga county, Democratic floor leader, followed with a one minute speech, favoring it. Nobody spoke against it.

The galleries contained about fifty suffrage leaders from different parts of the state. The women enthusiastically applauded the house's action and then went over to the senate and watched its progress there.

In the senate, Senators Latham, of Huron; Wright and Agnew, of Cuyahoga, and White, of Columbiana, spoke for the amendment. Senators O'Brien and Bellew, of Hamilton county, spoke against it.

BERLIN TOLD OF FULL PRICE OF HER ATROCITIES

Must Pay Penalty for Devastated Europe, is Reply to Germany

Counter-Proposals Only Slightly Met—Ex-Kaiser's Trial Demanded

PARIS — "The war was a crime deliberately plotted against the life and liberties of the people of Europe. It has brought death and mutilation to millions. Starvation, unemployment and disease stalk across the continent. For decades the peoples will groan under its burdens and disorganization. Punishment of those responsible for bringing on these calamities is essential on the score of justice and as a deterrent to others who may be tempted to follow their example."

In these words the allied peace commissioners published to Germany and all the world the enormity of Germany's crime and the reasons why she must pay the penalty. This is but a brief paragraph of the allies' reply to the counter-proposals, submitted to the Germans yesterday, but it epitomizes the spirit of stern justice evident throughout the document.

JUSTICE THE BASIS

The reply was supplemented by a letter from Premier Clemenceau, pointing out that "justice is the only possible basis for the accounts of this terrible war" and that "Germany must undertake to make reparations to the very uttermost of her power."

Certain modifications were made in the original treaty—not with the idea of making the conditions easier for the enemy, according to certain allied authorities, but for the purpose of rendering the pact more certain of fulfillment.

Germany's counter-demand for immediate and equal admission to the league of nations was met by an agreement to include her in that organization "at an early date" dependent upon her fulfillment of treaty conditions.

The German appeal for a larger army was compromised through permission to increase her fighting force from 100,000 to 200,000, during "the period of transition."

A request for a German commission to cooperate with the allied reparations commission was granted. Demand for immediate fixation of a definite sum for reparation, the total not to exceed $25,000,000,000 was denied. The allies, however, agreed to permit the Germans to propose a financial settlement within four months after the treaty is signed.

TRIAL OF KAISER

Germany's opposition to trial of the former kaiser by a foreign tribunal is met by a statement that "the powers cannot trust the trial of those responsible to those who have been their accomplices."

The reply further declared that "the trial of ex-kaiser is discussional only in form and not in substance, as he has been arraigned as a matter of high international policy for a supreme offense against international morality, the sanctity of treaties and the essential rules of justice.

"Judicial forms and procedure and a regular constituted tribunal have been set up both to insure the accused full rights to defense and to give the judgment the most solemn judicial character."

It is also stated that they will submit within one month after signing of the treaty a final list of "those who must be handed over to justice."

The German appeal for a blebiscite in Alsace-Lorraine is denied as is the demand for radical changes in the Saar valley settlement. A plebiscite in Upper Silesia, however, is granted, in addition to some rectification of the West Prussian frontier.

A few other changes were made, largely in the way of verbiage or in clarification of the original treaty provisions.

HARROD ELEVATOR IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

A midnight fire in an old flour mill at Harrod, last night, resulted in near $3,500 damages. Spontaneous combustion was given as the cause. Village firemen attempted to stop the flames, but were forced to concentrate their efforts upon saving surrounding property.

Eighteen tons of coal, adjoining the shed, was also destroyed The mill was purchased recently by Metz brothers of La Rue, and was being remodelled at the time of the fire.

CANADIAN EX-SOLDIERS PLEDGE HELP TO GOVERNMENT IN FIGHTING REDS

In answer to the general strike and Bolshevist campaign raging in Winnipeg, Canada, discharged soldiers recently paraded carrying banners such as the one shown in the picture, which reads: "We stand by our elected government." They volunteered their services to preserve order and were placed on duty. They have been rendering valuable aid in preventing serious trouble.

MANY VETERANS ARRIVE HERE AS BUSINESS OPENS

"Boys In Blue" and Auxiliaries Get Down to Work of Encampment—Heat Fails to Check Enthusiasm

Lima has entirely given way to the civil war veterans who are celebrating their fifty-third annual encampment here this week, and every incoming train or traction, brings added numbers of delegates and visitors.

The veterans of 61 and 65, undaunted by advancing years, active in spite of the heat of a June sun, are keenly alive to all the business of the occasion and the entertainments.

Hundreds of the "Boys in Blue" are to be seen, survivors of the memorable battles which have rung in our ears, and stirred our hearts and minds to the deeds of valor and sacrifice. More sweeping than the shell-fire of the plains of Shiloh, or the Wilderness, is the toll of years, which has depleted the ranks of the veterans, and year by year fewer of them answer roll-call at the annual encampment.

The occasion this week is one of particular joy to the veterans They meet old comrades again, talk over the ever-remembered battles of the war with the clarity and fervor of more youthful spirits. The most interesting phase of the veteran character is the bouyant spirit shown, no fear or timidity of many years weighing them heavier. With light hearts and smiling faces they boast of their youthful vigor and life, while to the most casual observer, the old heroes are slowly but surely wilting under the pressure of many years.

There are veterans here today who have not missed an encampment in years. John G. Cohen, of Fred J. Jones Post, Cincinnati, arrived Monday, having attended every encampment in the state for the past 20 years, besides all of the National encampments but one.

As an instance of the interest in the state encampments a partial list of some of the veterans who have come from other states to attend shows their enthusiasm: Pete Lamb, 17th O. V. I. Co. K.; F. M. Mauk, 33rd Co. K.; and J. H. Johnson, 118th Co. C. came from St. Cloud, Florida. L. H. Waltz, 20th Co E, Hillsdale, Michigan; Geo. W. Wolfe, 27th Co. I. is here from Pierceton, Indiana, I. L. Waltz, 69th Co. I., is from Flint, Michigan, and many others are registered from out the state.

Several hundred delegates of the G. A. R. and affiliated organizations attended the flag presentation at the Central High school Tuesday morning. The ceremony was impressive and splendid tribute was paid to the war heroes, and glowing words were spoken for the flag that had acted as a beacon light during the darkness of war and struggle. Judge D. F. Pugh, past department commander, gave a stirring address, followed by address by pupils, and others. Emogene N. Marshall, department president, presided.

Early in the forenoon the credentials committee of the G. A R. met at the Norval hotel, followed at 2 P M. by a meeting of the council of administration.

The Womans' Relief Corps, at 9 a. m. met with conductors color bearers and guards at Trinity M E. church for instructions, the credential committee meeting at the same time.

The council of administration of the Ladies of the G A R headquarters, Lima house, at 9 a. m. Tuesday, followed by a meeting of the advisory council at 11

Memorial services of the Ladies of the G A. R. was held at 2 p. m at the Market street Presbyterian church, to which the public was invited. At 3 o'clock, a fine large portrait of Lincoln was presented to the Y. M C A, and at 4 o'clock the credential committee met at the Lima House.

The thirty-seventh annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans is marked by many meetings and special gatherings

Tuesday morning the division council met at the Lima House, followed by a meeting of the division staff at 1 p. m., and the first session of the Encampment at the K. of P. hall at 2:30

The Daughters of Veterans held a convention meeting at the Odd Fellows hall Tuesday morning at 8:30. A council meeting at 1 p. m., and a business session at 2, preceeded the flag presentation at Memorial Hall at 5 o'clock.

The thirty-third annual encampment of the Ohio division of the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary opened Tuesday morning with a convention meeting at Moose Hall, at 9 o'clock. Exemplifications of the ritual by Carrollton Auxiliary No. 68, was conducted at 2 p m.

Several interesting and prominent gatherings are on the program for Tuesday evening, principle among which is the joint reception by auxiliary organizations at the Elks' home at 8 o'clock .

Department commander D. M. Hall and staff will be tendered a reception at the Elks home at 8:30 to which all allied organizations and friends are invited.

The M. A. Hanna Circle No. 52, of Lima, of the Ladies of the G. A. R. will entertain department officers at a dinner at 6 o'clock.

The Sons of Veterans will hold a greetings meeting at the K. of P. Hall at 8 o'clock. The Daughters of Veterans will hold a reception for the National president at the I O. O. F. hall, and the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary will hold a greetings meeting at Moose hall at 7:30.

MEXICAN ATTACK ON U. S. CITIZENS IS NOW FEARED

American Miners May Be Called Out of Chihuahua—Juarez Quiet

Story of Holdup by Bandits is Told by Arizona Woman

EL PASO—Fears were felt here today that Villistas, smarting under defeat at the hands of the American expedition into Mexico, may begin a campaign of extermination against United States citizens in Chihuahua. Americans with interests in Chihuahua met here to debate the question of recalling their men and closing down mines and smelters in view of the almost certain attacks from the Villistas. The excitement over the American crossing into Juarez and brief skirmishes with the bandit forces had subsided today.

The 3,000 United States soldiers who dispersed the Villistas, killing or wounding upwards of 50 before returning to the American side of the border, were resting at Fort Bliss. No early return of the Villistas to the attack on Juarez is anticipated. The American border troops are ready again to cross into Mexico to protect residents of El Paso from any fighting in Juarez.

The suggestion that the crossing was to aid the Carranzistas against the Villistas was refuted by Gen. Erwin.

"The punitive move ordered and satisfactorily carried out Sunday night and Monday morning, was certainly not with the purpose of aiding the Carranzistas but to inflict punishment upon the Villistas for having fired across the river into American soil, wounding and killing American people," said Gen. Erwin.

Announcement of the exact American casualties in the two engagements with the Villistas was to be made today at Fort Bliss. The losses were insignificant, officials indicated.

AMERICANS ROBBED

LAREDO, Texas — A party of American refugees held up and robbed of everything, including their clothing, by Mexican bandits near Jiminez, Mexico, arrived here today.

Miss Isabel Maley, Nogales, Ariz., said the party was enroute from Mexico City to the United States via Chihuahua. When the train reached Jiminez, where bandits had torn up the tracks, they were forced to hire a Mexican driver to take them to Chihuahua City. Shortly after leaving Jiminez, the bandits stopped the party, robbing them of everything and beating them with rifle butts.

Miss Maley and two other Americans escaped into the desert and finally reached Chihuahua where Americans assisted them to the border. Miss Maley said she did not know what became of the other Americans in the party. She said they may have perished in the desert.

TENSION HIGH AT PARIS AS PEACE SEEMS DOUBTFUL

Spirit of Uncertainty Prevails as Germans Leave With Treaty

Optimism As to Enemy Signing the Pact by Next Monday Fades

PARIS—With peace or war to be determined before seven o'clock Monday evening, the tension in Paris today recalled that preceding the opening of hostilities in August, 1914

Count Brockdorff-Rantzau was enroute to Weimar today with a retinue of 73 German peace delegates to present to the national assembly the allies' reply to the counter-proposals, submitted at Versailles yesterday evening

The feeling of the French people was illustrated by the fact that when the Germans left the Hotel des Reservoirs for their special train at 9:45 last night a crowd of 4,000 gathered outside, hooting and insulting the enemy representatives. This was the first demonstration against them in the work in France.

The latest advices from Berlin and Weimar reiterates that Germany will not accept the revised treaty unless it contains important modifications. Through unofficial press reports the German government has been appraised from time to time of the alterations and in this way already is in possession of the main concessions.

UNCERTAIN FEELING

The optimism in allied peace circles which had been so noticeable in the last few days, had changed today to a feeling of uncertainty as to whether the Germans will find the modifications sufficient to warrant acceptance This attitude was reflected by the public, which eagerly scanned every word touching on the situation. There were no demonstrations in the streets and the people went about their business as usual, but the air was electric with a nervous tension as the citizens silently considered the one great question—"peace or war?"

To the eastward, beyond the battle scarred regions over which the armies fought and refought for four years, the armies of Marshal Foch waited on German soil for the word that will send them to Berlin, or reduce them to the status of a mere police force

NAVY READY TO HIT

To the northward the great ships of the British navy, their movement shrouded in mystery, were known to be preparing for a quick descent upon the all but unprotected German coast, if the verdict is no

In Paris a little company of men, most unmartial in appearance, had before them the plans of the economic blockade that will strangle Germany if her leaders choose to continue the struggle

The long months of weary consideration of the details and technicalities of the peace settlement were over so far as Germany is concerned. When Paul Dutasta, secretary of the peace conference, handed the reply to the Germans yesterday—an incident entirely devoid of ceremony—the negotiations for the most momentous peace in history were virtually brought to a close

The Germans were given just seven days, to the minute, in which to make known their decision. The verdict rests with them.

CLOSE IN ON REDS

Allies March on Petrograd—Outer Defenses Fall

STOCKHOLM.—The outer defenses of Petrograd have practically been reduced and allied forces are advancing upon the former Russian capital, according to dispatches received from Helsingfors, today

Kronstadt, the great naval base lying 30 miles west of Petrograd, was set fire by artillery bombardment Sunday, it was reported. Shortly after seven o'clock warships left their anchorage and surrendered to the British squadron. At about the same time, the big fortress of Krasnaya Gorka hoisted the white flag followed by several lesser forts.

Allied troops were immediately landed to the eastward of Krasnaya Gorka and began marching upon Peterhoff (12 miles west of Petrograd,) according to the dispatches.

VETERANS TELL STORIES THAT NEVER GROW TOO OLD

Marching to the sea with Sherman, all over again, and all in one morning, is an accomplishment that can be attained only by a veteran of the Civil war.

W. J. Hughes of Lancaster, Sherman's home, and one of the ardent admirers of the general, with a few other survivors of the famous march, fought his way to the sea again this morning.

"I had the measles in '64," he said, "but I got well in time to go along with Sherman, to the sea."

"You got there, too, didn't you," interposed another of the old boys, emphatically.

"I'll say we did," Hughes continued, and we lived off the land on our way down. Our bunch killed one cow of the herd we dragged along with us, every night, and the last one we ate was killed at the sea—I'll say we got there!"

* * *

"I was standing guard one night," J. A. Telfer of Liverpool, and one of the famous 98th Ohio, was off on a story.

"When we got down into the rebel country, we kinda woke them up. That night as I was patrolling my section, a little old reb sneaks up and gives himself to us.

"He had the nerve, too, to say that he wanted to join us," added Telfer warmly.

"Did you let him join?"—the casual hearer wanted to know.

"I should say we didn't," answered Telfer, almost hurt. "We took him prisoner."

W. V. Marshall, a member of the 169th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, enjoys one of the most interesting records among the visiting delegates to the G. A. R. encampment.

He is both a veteran and a son of a veteran.

His grandfather, Thomas Vickroy, fougth with General Roger Clark's army thru the Revolutionary war, in the capacity as quartermaster.

His father, Moses Fraim Marshall was killed during the Civil war, after his second enlistment, at Fortress Monroe.

Marshall, himself, when a lad, longed to follow the colors south, but his mother forbade him to enlist. But he was obdurate, ran away from home in Pennsylvania, came to Wooster, Ohio, where he enlisted in the 169th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and saw action during the strenuous days of '63, '64 and '65.

And now, while old in years, but young in spirit, William Marshall, greets his son, W. Albert Marshall, just returned from France. In fact, he has two sons in the service, one being on the Mexican bordre.

D. R. Herrick, a Civil war veteran, a member of the First Ohio, light cavalry, Co. C., came from Cincinnati to attend the encampment.

He is a cousin to Myron T. Herrick, former state governor.

Thomas H. Corcoran, a trustee of the Fred C. Jones Post, No. 401, Cincinnati, arrived in Lima Monday, with his wife.

Corcoran is called the dean of the automobile lamp industry, having one of the largest auto lamp manufacturing plants in the country, the Victor Lamp compayn, Cincinnati, now operated by his son, George A. Corcoran, where over 500 persons are employed.

"I never miss an encampment," he said.

Corcoran recounted the death of Major General William H. Lytle, at Chicamaugua, September 10th, 1863.

Captain E. R. Monfort, past national commander, is among the visiting delegates from Cincinnati. He is stopping at the Norval hotel.

OFFICIAL WELCOME

Living again the scenes so vividly impressed upon their minds a half century past, and brought forcibly to their remembrance in euoligistic terms by speakers at the opening session Monday evening at Memorial Hall of the G. A. R. encampment, veterans of "61 and 65" paid added tribute to the heroes of the worlds war. Recounting of the deeds of these present day soldiers, the old guard honored those who engaged in the European struggle.

Mayor B. H. Simpson, in extending greetings to veterans of three wars, Civil, Spanish and World war, said: "You who have fought at Antietam and Fredericksburg who marched with Sherman and forced Lee's surrender, and you who fought the Spanish-American war—you now are all happy to see your sons and grandsons victorious in Europe."

Former Governor James E. Campbell made a stirring address in reply to the mayor's welcome. He recounted the brave deeds of American soldiers of all times, distributing praise to all who had fought for the great Union alike.

Criticism of the auxiliary branches of the Grand Army was decried by Mrs. Jane Conklin, department commander of the Sons of Veterans. She said "We need more organizations. Our Americans need to be Americanized. We must strive more and more to teach one languago and one flag to increasing numbers of immigrants."

Additional speakers who appeared were Custer Snyder, commander of the Sons of Veterans; Miss Hallie Everetts, Cleveland, Daughters of Veterans; Miss Estella Moore, national president of the Daughters of Veterans; Oscar Hunt, department patriotic instructor of the G. A. R.; Mrs. Clara Holmes, commander of the Ladies of the G. A. R.; Mrs. Emogene Niver Marshall, Womans Relief Corps, Judge David F. Pugh, past department commander of the G. A. R.; and Major S. N. Titus, Columbus.

One modern feature of the meeting stood out in that electric fans replaced the old camp fires so familiar to the men of the Civil War. Around these grouped perhaps the finest soldiers that ever wore the uniform of any world power.

TANK MANEUVER HERE WEDNESDAY

Veterans of G. A. R. Will See Modern War Machine In Action

In contrast with the war-weapons used by the Civil war veterans who are holding their encampment in Lima this week there will be an exhibition of tank maneuvers, Wednesday.

Carl Rowlands, chairman of the executive committee, has received word from Congressman Benjamin Welty, at Washington, that the tank, which has been held for several days at Lima, subject to orders from the war department, will be permitted to leave the car at the Erie tracks, and demonstrate the veterans of the Civil war, one of the most potent factors in the allied victory in France and Belgium.

The exhibition will be given at the Pierce street bridge, on the banks of the Ottawa river, where a similar show was given during the Victory Liberty Loan drive.

Dr. J. King Gibson

BEING BOOMED FOR COMMANDER

Chaplain of Dayton Home in Race For G. A. R. State Head

Dr. J. King Gibson, D. D., chaplain of the National Military Home, Dayton, is one of the likely candidates for department commander of the Ohio G. A. R. for 1920.

In a letter to Major John W. Riley, Colonel W. J. White, governor of the Central Branch, pays Chaplain Gibson the highest tribute, and hopes that he will be elected for the post.

There is no decided favor shown in Lima among the visiting delegates, considerable rivalry being noticed between the two principal candidates, Dr. Gibson and H. C. Martindale, of Cleveland.

The election of new officers for the department will take place later in the week, probably Thursday.

STRIKE LEADERS LANDED IN JAIL

Winnipeg Labor Temple Raided By Police—to Deport "Trouble-Makers"

WINNIPEG, Man.—Wholesale arrests of leaders in the general strike were made here today.

Royal Northwest mounted police raided the labor temple, seizing literature.

Authorities refused to make public a list of prisoners, but claimed all prominent leaders were included.

The prisoners are held in-communicado in the Stony Mountain penitentiary.

Royal Northwest mounted police were on guard today at the labor temple. No person or persons were permitted within 100 yards of the building.

Military officials and other officers had been planning the raid for several weeks, but action was deferred until the government at Ottawa last week supplied the weapon desired—a drastic deportation act. Under this law, aliens and British born "trouble-makers" can be deported.

Duke Of Westminster Divorced By Wife

cupied quarter of an hour in presentminster today was granted a divorce from the Duke of Westminster on charges of desertion and adultery.

The duke was not represented by counsel. He entered a denial.

The biggest society crush in years crowded the king's bench court to hear the testimony.

The duchess took the stand and occupied quarter of an hour nl presenting her story. She said their early married life was happy, but that in 1909 they became estranged.

In June, 1917, the duchess said that she and private detectives watched the duke and saw him rent a house in Brighton in his own name. Shortly after midnight, she said, he met a woman, who went to the duke's suite in a hotel and did not leave until morning.

Oldest Fifer Is G.A.R. Delegate

Accredited with being the oldest fifer in the state, David N. Stambuahg, 87, whose home is at Mansfield, is a delegate to the G. A. R. encampment this week.

Large crowds at drum corps headquarters heard his selections on the fife Monday night. He is scheduled to play in the big parade to be held Thursday. Nightly concerts will also be staged by him.

"Uncle Davie," as he is familiarly known in his home, expressed his appreciation of the hospitality of Lima people and seemed well pleased with Lima in the whole.

He is quartered at the Y. M. C. A. building.

PASS RELIEF BILL

Senate Adopts City Aid Measure Over Cox's Veto

COLUMBUS.—The Ohio senate this afternoon by a 21 to 11 vote passed the joint taxation committee's financial relief bill over Gov. Cox's veto.

The bill provides for the raising of the limits of the Smith law to allow cities and school districts to pay up existing deficits.

PREPARES WET RIDER.

WASHINGTON.—Senator Phelan, California, will try to attach repeal of war-time prohibition on beer and wines to the agricultural appropriation bill in the senate, he announced today.

He will ask suspension of senate rules to make the proposal in order.

AGED MAN HANGS HIMSELF.

Gustave Emil Garau, a Frenchman 72 years of age, was found last Thursday night hanging to a tree in a clump of woods between Bluffton and Lafayette, about a half mile east of West Point church. Garau's divorced wife formerly lived in Lima, but is now in Fort Wayne. Several grown children survive the suicide.

Mrs. Jennie Darsch was removed from the City hospital to her home at 119 south Scott street, this morning, in the Bowersock ambulance.

Mr. Vernice McClure was removed to the St. Rita hospital from his residence at 765 Greenlawn by the City Undertaking company, today.

Mrs. B. L. Langan was removed to St. Rita's from her home at 509 south West street, today, by the City Undertaking company's ambulance.

FEAR MAN WAS VICTIM OF HEAT

Charles King Leaves Brief Note and Disappears—No Reason Known

Leaving the simple little note: "I am going away; God knows where. Gooy bye to all," Charles L. King, 36, employed at the Ohio Steel Foundry, checked out of work this morning at 8 o'clock and has not been seen since.

Fearing that something has happened to the man, police were notified and began an immediate search. Until late this afternoon the man had not been located.

No motive for his disappearance can be given either by his wife or his employers. From the time he left for work this morning, until she received a phone call at 9 o'clock this morning, his wife knew nothing of the matter, she said.

"He went to work as usual," she told The News, "and I cannot explain his disappearance. I am afraid that he has been overcome by the heat."

Besides the wife, King has a nine-year-old son.

From Sunday night at six, until Monday night at the same time, the man worked steadily, at his job, according to his wife.

WILSON TO OPEN FIGHT FOR LEAGUE IN BELGIUM

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson plans to open his fight for the peace treaty and league of nations in Belgium during his visit there.

Assuming the Germans will sign the treaty on schedule, he is now expected to leave France for home June 24 or 25.

This means he should be back at his desk in Washington July 4 or 5.

It was announced today that after he has delivered his treaty message to congress he will start on his tour of the country within two or three days and the tour will continue for approximately three weeks.

When a Girl Marries

By ANN LISLE

Phoebe stood clutching the jade earrings and necklace Dick West had brought her the night before. Her little heartshaped face flashed out at me in vivid defiance, and between us vibrated the words she had just spoken:

"Yes, I've changed. And you can't change me back again. Remember that!"

I realized the truth of what she had just said. I couldn't change this flaming, pleasure-loving coquette back to the little Phoebe of a few months ago—the girl of soft lips and gentle eyes. I had failed.

Jim didn't see the importance of the enchantment I wanted to work, nor yet of the evil spell I wanted to undo. And Virginia didn't even dare to try. But there was one other who might succeed where we had failed.

Phoebe had loved Neal once—loved him devotedly. There was no doubt of that. Child love, perhaps, but sincere and true and good. She had come to the city lonely and hungry for life. Friendship and excitement and love were the things she had wanted.

She had asked for my friendship. I could see that now. And I had been so shocked by Virginia's coldness to me that I hadn't realized how I was passing it right on to Phoebe.

So Phoebe had failed in her first search—the search for friendship.

Then, before she could begin searching anew for the second thing her youth craved—gayety—Neal had come. And he had brought her the gift that held in itself the sum of all her longings—love.

I could see Phoebe again on the evening of her return with Virginia, sitting on the big couch with one foot tucked under her and peering up to smile a shy "Hello!" As if it had been only yesterday, I could hear Neal's reply:

"I thought you were just a kid."

And Phoebe's:

"I'm a grown woman—seventeen!"

How they had laughed together then and how happily they had sat side by side, finding each other and forgetting in the joy of that the hurt of the thorough snubbing Virginia had given Neal for his presumption in calling her "Virginia," and for his awkwardness in stumbling on Pat Dalton's name.

It began that very night, I suppose. They didn't know it, but even then those two young things were reaching out to each other with shy, half-guessed longings.

Neal had brought her the greatest gift of all, and Phoebe had forgotten the lesser gifts. But seeing her now—avid for excitement and luxury and attention—I knew that Phoebe had travelled a long road since the Autumn day when she bade her soldier Neal a tearful goodby and pressed her lips to his diamond circlet as it nestled on her hand.

Yes, there was one thing for me to do—send for Neal.

I would write to Father Andrew—ask him to work hard to help Neal get his discharge, and to persuade the boy to come back to us as soon as he was out of the army.

In that moment the kinship of the Harrisons' in spirit as well as blood, was very clear to me. They had pride in common and stubbornness. Perhaps his sisters also shared Jim's need of dominating the one he loved. I didn't know. But of this I was certain—Virginia had wrecked herself on the reefs of her own pride and stubbornness, Jim and I were drifting into dangerous waters because of these same things. And now Phoebe. My own pride, my own need of freedom, might work enough damage so that Jim and I would be shipwrecked too in the end. I dared not think of that now.

What the present demanded was that I save Phoebe.

We had taken the circlet of diamonds from her hand and had sent it back to Neal. We had taken love from her. And Phoebe had turned to the least of her gifts and exalted it to first place. Excitement was her patron saint now, and it would wreck poor little Phoebe unless some one saved her from herself.

Of course I didn't formulate my thoughts in the minute of silence while I stood staring at Phoebe. I had been thinking and brooding all through the long morning while I had waited for her to awake. All that came to me then was the decision to send for Neal. To Phoebe I said:

"That carved jade, dear—do you think you ought to accept such gifts?"

Phoebe's face rimpled with mischief.

"Did you see Shelly's face when he held my pretties? My, wasn't he jealous! I'll wager he sends me a whole garden of American Beauties today."

"Phoebe!" I cried in real repugnance, "you're playing those men off against each other to see which will do more for you, which will send more wonderful presents."

Phoebe took a sudden impulsive step toward me. There was a wistful look on her face and it seemed to me that she was going to be gentle and repentant. But what she said at last was:

"You think that! This jade"——Then her voice grew impish: "Well, think away, Anne, think away. The necklace cost $200 and the earrings $50. Now, what do you say to that?"

"Phoebe!" I cried furiously, "You can't do such things. You shan't accept such gifts from men!"

"No?" asked Phoebe suavely. "Who's to stop me?"

Then a voice rang out from the other room:

"Hello, the house! Who's to stop what? And who's to welcome me back to the big city?"

It was Neal!

NEW FACES ARE MADE FOR THE WAR-DISFIGURED

WASHINGTON.—A most interesting collection of drawings is now being made at Walter Reed Hospital in the Maxillo-Facial Department, which, to quote one of the patients, "makes us better faces than we ever had before."

These pictures are to constitute a complete record of each case returned to this hospital with wounds about the head and thru the face. They will be invaluable to science.

The first drawing is made of a soldier as he looks upon arrival at the hospital.

The next is made while the operation is being performed. The artist goes into the operating room and remains during the entire operation.

THEN FINAL ONE

After leaving the operating room the artist makes larger diagrams from the rough sketch and these are done in natural colors, showing the details of how pieces of cartilage are transferred to the nose to form a bridge; how fat is removed from the abdomen and used to round out the cheek in cases of deep puckered scars, and how flaps of skin are taken from the forehead or neck to fill the spaces made by the removal of great scars, and illustrating operations for grafting bone where parts of the jaws are shot away.

The third and final drawing is one of the man as he looks after the operation.

Only a small percentage of men who received wounds thru the face lived to return to this country. Eight hundred is the estimated total out of the many thousands. Perhaps more deaths occurred from wounds of this kind than from any other kind.

The majority of the wounds thru the face were made by machine gun bullets and small shell fragments. The missing usually mark rather small holes at point of entry, but gathering pieces of the jaw bone, teeth and other structures as they tore thru the mouth, made large lacerations where they came out.

PATIENTS CHEERFUL

There are three wards of these cases at Walter Reed Hospital, containing about 120 men.

The prevailing spirit is exceedingly cheerful and a gloomy face is very rare. Such instances occur generally the day after operation.

The chief worry of a young corporal from California, who lost one leg, one eye and the top portion of his nose, is the fact that his "best girl" and his sister, who has just come on to see him are jealous of each other and this puts him, as he expresses it, "in a jam." Too much attention to sister, brings protest from "best girl" and vice versa. That's typical.

PESKY BED BUGS

A MILLION BEDBUGS. Just think, a 35c package of the new golden chemical P. D. Q (Pesky Devils Quietus), is enough to make a quart and enough to kill a million bedbugs, no matter how large they may be, where they came from, their age, color or sex, and at the same leaves a coating on their eggs and prevents hatching.

CUT THIS OUT. This new chemical can be had at any first-class drug store. A 35-cent package makes a quart of P.D.Q., and will go farther than a barrel of old-fashioned bug killer. Don't let anybody impose upon your intelligence by offering you something else. Insist on what you ask for, then you'll have what doctors prescribe.

KILLS FLEAS ON DOGS. It's fun to see the fleas drop off your pet dogs.

KILLS CHICKEN LICE. No use for your chickens to have lice. A 35c package mixed makes a gallon of chicken lice killer.

Your druggist has it, or can get it for you.

POWERFUL TRACTOR FUELS

TROUSERS ARE NOW DEMANDED BY JAP WOMEN

Some Bob Hair as Feminist Movement Spreads—Girl Student Strike

TOKYO.—If a nation moves only as fast as the progress of its women, Japan is destined to make another big stride ahead, for its hitherto very gentle gentler sex is responding rapidly to the world-wide emancipatory movements.

Femininsm is daily gaining momentum under the guidance of the more liberal leaders of both sexes.

At the Mishima-machi Higher School, girls who were displeased with their president went on strike recently.

When the faculty members and parents instituted a search, 90 of the strikers were found in conclave on a nearby hill, resolved not to return until the offending president had been removed.

These strange portents from the schools of the Orient are not all to be credited to the students. Some of the teachers are advocating reforms for women that would do credit to even the most radical Occidental.

KIMONOS TO GO.

Shu Miyata, president of the Seijo Higher school, is planning to have his girl students wear trousers instead of the kimonos.

The heavy "obi" worn around the waist with the kimono, prevents proper muscular development, he says. Other women are already demanding trousers.

Disobedience of the Japanese maid has been a thing almost unheard of. But the other day, Fuji Uyeda, a pupil at the Japan Art School for Women, bobbed her hair in regular Greenwich style as a protest against her father's disapproval of her liberal instructor.

In many of the lower schools, cooking and nursing classes, modeled on American schools and using foreign equipment, have become a regular part of the curriculum.

FACTORY WOMEN SPEAK.

Miss Taka Takanashi, niece of Baroness Shibusawa and former student at Chicago and Stanford Universities, who has just returned to Japan to take up social service, in commenting on a recent meeting of Tokyo factory women, said:

"Several women spoke—the first instance, I believe, where our working women have expressed any sentiment related to their employment. It is the beginning, and I hope their interest increases."

Organization of labor unions for women, especially to raise the status of the telephone and factory girls, is being urged by the more radical feminists, altho unionism is not yet permitted even among male employes.

Abolition of police restrictions over women interesting themselves in politics is also to be urged by promoters of "The New Woman," a monthly magazine soon to be issued in Tokyo.

Japanese women are beginning to compete with men in positions heretofore reserved for men only. The authtorities recently granted a ship's master license to Miss Otono Hanado, pioneer in that field.

THOUGHT 3 LITTLE CHILDREN NEEDED MOTHER'S CARE

"My stomach suffering was so severe that I could not have lasted much longer. I did not care much for myself but did not want to leave my three little children who needed a mother's love and care. A cousin in California wrote me about Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and I took a course of it. I have since been entirely well." MAIN STREET IS ORDERED PAVED

Ordinance To Proceed Passes Council—Sewer Legislation Also Goes Thru

Council finally has passed the ordinance to proceed with the repaving of Main street from the Pennsylvania tracks to the Ottawa river. Service Director Metheany was ordered to advertise for bids together with the repaving of Oak street, from Kibby to Vine, and Faurot avenue, from Garfield to Cole at the meeting Monday night.

The next question in connection with the Main street paving is the raising of $50,000 necessary to make up the $86,000, which is the city's share. About $33,000 has already been appropriated for that purpose. The total cost will run into approximately $176,000, with the city assessed about half of the expense, the balance to be paid by the O. E. railroad and abutting property owners.

The ordinance to proceed with the Askins Relief sewer was also passed, and allowing 30 days for publication some action on this second branch of the sewer relief plan will be started.

Council directed the board of health to forbid the rebuilding of garbage disposal plant at the B. & O. and Findlay street, which burned Sunday.

In order to save the city from having bonds and interest on certain coming river and bridge improvements deducted from the city's operating finances, City Auditor Rupert prepared a list of necessary bonds which must be disposed of to take care of future work, and suggested that it be submitted to the voters at the primary election, thus coming without the Smith 1 percent levy.

Carnivals coming to Lima in the future must pay a tax to the city of $10 a day, instead of the $15 a week now collected.

SUIT INVOLVING $12 APPEALED TO LOSER

Twelve dollars forms the basis of an appeal from a decision of Justice Morris' court in a suit filed in common pleas Tuesday morning.

The action is an appeal from former decision in which Inez F. Spees was awarded $12 as payment for a month's tenancy of a house occupied by Catherine Bender.

The justice court ruled that the defendant pay the amount involved and that the costs be charged to her.

RECEIVE APPLICATIONS

Applications fo rthe conversion of war risk insurance prevailing during the war are now being received at the Navy recruiting office. Discharged sailors desiring to convert their policy to one of civilian status will be taken care of at the local office. Six different kinds of policies are obtainable.

CLAIM GERMAN MILITARY SPIRIT THING OF PAST

LONDON.—The German government and its immediate organs insist that the spirit of Germany has changed, and that her old militarist and imperialist ambitions died with the revolution.

But there remains a strong party, very active in public and in private, eagerly watching the hesitations and mistakes of the government and openly advocatiig the restoration of the army and navy, says The London Times, in its survey of the German press.

The Deutsche Tageszeitung publishes a long article on the text, "Old Moltke can still give us good advice," and adapts the published utterances of the famous field marshal to the present situation of Germany. Moltke, it reminds its readers, did not believe in permanent peace or in leagues of nations.

Idle Dreams.

"Councils of the nations, international brotherhood and all such aspirations" were idle dreams. They would fall to pieces at the first difficulty, as, says the writer somewhat prematurely, the league now being former in Paris has failed to keep Japan within its circle.

"Every nation must prepare for war, and therefore a strong army is necessary."

The writer then proceeds to review the opinions of Moltke on the merits of volunteer armies, citing his comments on the various historical attempts to substitute militias for regular armies.

The only army that is of any real utility is one in which discipline is mantained by fear of punishment and in which the power of the officers and non-commissioned officers is absolute.

Soldiers must not have anything to do with politics; their business is to obey orders.

And so the intentions of the Entente with regard to the future of the Germa . army cannot be accepted. Germany requires and Germany will have an army like the old army, which was the admiration and the fear of the world.

The Hamburger Nachrichten publishes an article by a "naval officer," demanding that the interned German ships, with the exception of submarines, be returned to Germany immediately after the conclusion of peace.

He says that it was clearly understood that these unconquered ships were to be interned in neutral harbors, but that Admiral Beatty treated them on their arrival in the Firth of Forth as prizes of war and by gross breach of faith had them sent to Scapa Flow.

C.-M. ELECTION WITH PRIMARY

Council Provides for Vote on Proposed Change in City Government

Lima voters will have the opportunity August 12th to vote whether or not they desire a commission-manager form of government.

Council Monday night ordered an election to be held on the day of the regular primaries, thus obviating additional expense for holding special, or separate elections.

It was also ordered that the election of framers of the charter be voted on the same day, which will cut out one of the usual three elections when the commission-manager plan is being voted upon.

Petitions for members of the committee of 15, which will write the city's charter, in case the commission-manager plan is adopted, will be received similarly as any other petition is filed with the board of elections. The closing date for filing petitions is July 19th, at 1 o'clock.

The action taken Monday night by council, was the result of a petition asking for a special election, which was signed by 2,048 voters of the city, and presented to council several weeks ago.

UNITED STATES LEADS WORLD IN ELECTRIC LINES

Has More Trackage Than All Other Countries Combined, Says Report

NEW YORK.—The United States operates more electric locomotives over a greater electrified track mileage than all other countries in the world combined, according to figures compiled by W. R. Potter and S. T. Dodd, engineers of the General Electric Co.

This announcement will be made in the form of a paper to be published in the proceedings of the Western Railway Club, together with some interesting statistics, summarized as follows:

"The approximate railway route mileage of the world is:

United States	265,218
Europe	217,000
Rest of the world	230,000
400,000 Miles.

"The 265,000 miles in the United States represents about 400,000 miles of single track or a total of mileage including trolley systems of approximately 450,000 miles. This would represent a single railroad track stretched 18 times around the world.

"In considering heavy electrification," say these engineers, "if we eliminate the electric roads which are devoted strictly to motor car service and include those tracks, both steam road and trolley, which are handling freight and passenger service with electric lomomotives, we find in the United States approximately 675 electric locomotives operating over 4875 miles of route or 8300 miles of electrified track.

10 Times Greater.

"Compared with this, in all the rest of the world there are about 450 electric locomotives operating over only 1000 miles of route, or 1750 miles of track. That is, the percentage of electrified route mileage in the United States alone, is about 10 times as much as the percentage in all other countries combined."

In order to present a figure showing the economy of electric operation, Potter and Dodd, taking the reports of revenue traffic for 1914, including the estimated tonnage of cars and locomotives, find that the railway traffic for that year amounted to one trillion ton-miles.

Out of this the movement of coal for railway purposes, together with coal cars and locomotives carrying same, amounted to about 12 per cent

Tells Others How Tonic Corrected His Indigestion

Ohio Man Endorses Remedy That Restored His Flesh and Strength After Long Illness.

"I want others to know what an excellent tonic Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are," says Mr. John H. Bell, of No. 21 West Corry street, Cincinnati, Ohio, "for the remedy not only ended my suffering but built me up.

"For months I had suffered from severe stomach pains which seemed to be growing worse all the time. I had little appetite and what I ate seemed to stay in my stomach and cause distress for hours after. My sleep was broken and unrestful and there was a constant dull ache in my left side, near my heart. There were also sharp, shooting pains in my back.

"One day a friend, learning of my trouble, advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He spoke so highly of the remedy that I began the treatment. In a short time there was a noticeable improvement in my condition. Gradually the stomach pains became less severe until I could eat a hearty meal without distress. As my blood improved the pains around my heart and in my back disappeared. I feel better than I have for many months and owe my health entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or direct from the Dr Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y, at 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, postpaid, on receipt of price. Write for the free booklets on nervous disorders and "What to Eat and How to Eat."

CLOTHES MAKERS ARE NOW GIVEN GOVERNMENT AID

After-War Business of Garment Plants Proves Better Than Expected.

WASHINGTON.—The difficulty in securing sufficient trained workers in the garment industry in this country because immigration has entirely ceased, promises to be obviated in a large measure by the installation of industrial training, which the government is promoting thru the U. S. Training Service of the Department of Labor. Heretofore the garment industry in this country has offered no adequate training except for cutters, and in some plants production difficulties have become serious because of the volume of after-war business.

AFFECTS PRICES

This shortage undoubtedly is a factor indirectly affecting present prices of clothing, and while no claim is made that the installation of training causes immediate reduction of prices, government officials point out that in the long run it is a decided factor in promoting greater economy in manufacture.

The government's aid for the industry is in the form of four books which are about to be issued by the U. S. Training Service. These set forth in detail practical methods of teaching old and new workers the most approved ways of performing their tasks.

Nothing of like scope and design has been available for the garment manufacturers and many of them are planning to utilize the training courses contained in these books for upgrading their present staff of workers and teaching new workers to more quickly learn correct methods.

Each of these books is devoted to a special branch of the industry, one to women's cloaks, suits and skirts, another to men's suits and overcoats, a third to overalls and a fourth to shirts.

MANY WOMEN WORKERS

Government investigation shows that considerable more than 50 per cent of the garment workers are women and that a large majority of these only remain in the industry for about eight years, that is, from their late teens until marriage. The prevalence of such short terms of service creates a large turnover which taxes the industry heavily, according to garment making firms. One use of the forthcoming courses, therefore, will be to reduce and make more effective the learning period of young women.

TRAINING NEEDED

The introduction of one of these books quotes from a report of an investigation conducted in Cincinnati by the local Chamber of Commerce which states that not over 25 per cent of the workers in the clothing industry (excluding cutters) are properly trained.

The condition in that city is taken as being typical of the industry as a whole and it is believed that what the government has prepared will make big improvements possible.

WIRE STRIKERS ADOPT 'WATCHFUL WAITING' POLICY

CHICAGO.—A policy of "watchful waiting" was adopted by officials of the striking telegraphers here today. President Konenkamp said no action was being taken pending report of the conference between Percy Thomas, New York, deputy international president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, and Samuel Gompers.

"We are relying on the interpretation placed on Burleson's decision regarding the telephone workers," Konenkamp said. "We feel what he had decreed for them must also apply to us."

Konenkamp said many encouraging reports were received as to the success of the strike in many parts of the country.

YOUTHS' DREAMS ARE PROBED BY LONDON DOCTOR

Declares He Finds Children in Good Health Enjoy Life

LONDON.—Dr. C. W. Kimmins, chief inspector of the London Education committee, has been making an extensive study of children's dreams. His first studies were of the dreams of very young children, and after that he took the dreams of children from 8 to 16 years of age. In endeavoring to study the dreams of students from 18 to 22 years old he found that the dreamers in reporting their experiences embroidered them so freely that the reports were of practically no value.

Dr. Kimmins has investigated the reports of 5000 dreams of children from 8 to 16 years of age. In a lecture before the Child Study Society he said that in the normal elementary schools the number of clearly expressed fulfilled wishes differed considerably in boys' and girls' dreams, the precentage varying from about 28 per cent in the case of boys to 42 per cent in the case of grils. The nature of the wishes also varied.

BRING DESIRES

The eating element in dreams fell off after the age of 10, and presents, other than food, decreased after that age; the dreams of visits to the country tended to increase. Dreams of presents and eating at all ages from 8 to 14 were much more common with children from the poorer than with those from the well-to-do districts, and there was an appreciable increase in their number toward Christmas. Retrospective dreams among young children were very uncommon.

BOYS FEARFUL

Boys had far more "fear dreams" than girls. In both sexes it was the old man who was the terror of the dreaming child. The sexes suffered equally in such dreams from the fear of animals—lions, tigers and bulls in the case of boys, and dogs, rats, mice and snakes in the case of girls. It more frequently happened that when the element of school entered into a dream it was concerned with the playground than with the schoolroom.

Most of the accounts of the dreams, which the lecturer read, were written six months after the last air raid was experienced in London, and the memory of the raids had by that time practically ceased to trouble the dreamer. The war generally had a far greater effect upon the dreams of boys than those of girls. Often the dreamer was mentioned in dispatches, he won the Victory Cross, he was personally thanked by the king, and on returning from the war he was cheered by grateful crowds.

There is a world of interest in reading advertisements

Your daily newspaper is far brighter and more interesting for the advertisements it contains. You get information from them. You learn all about many little things that are of so much personal importance in your life. They keep you posted. They tell you what is new and desirable.

Sometimes they keep you from making an unwise purchase by pointing out just the reasons why one article suits your needs better than another.

Reading advertisements helps you to economize. You know that economy is not alone a matter of saving money but of spending money to advantage. Advertising identifies goods of unquestioned value.

When a store or manufacturer puts a name on goods and tells you about them you may be sure they are worth while because it does not pay to advertise merchandise that is not good.

Make a practice of reading advertisements. Read them as news from the business world, published for your benefit. They will help you to live better and dress better and make more of your income in every way.

Do You Wear Glasses?

If so, you should have your eyes examined every two years.

The eyes undergo a gradual change and Specialists recommend re-examinations.

Sometimes the wearing of glasses strengthens the eyesight so that on re-examination it is found that weaker lenses are needed—or it may be that stronger lenses are required so that the eyes may be used without strain.

In our establishments you you can have your eyes examined by experienced specialists any time between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

If a change of lenses is advisable, you may secure these for $2.00 or more—according to the lenses needed.

LIMA TEACHERS FOR NEXT YEAR ARE APPOINTED

Recent grant of ten per cent increase in the salaries paid teachers of the Lima public schools has brought the rate of increase within the past four years to a figure approximating sixty-three per cent. The total expenditure for salaries for the coming year will be $171,725.15 as compared with $105,129.39 for the year 1915.

A report of Superintendent Collins to the board of education shows that these increases have been made despite the fact that city property taxation on which the school finances are based has only risen seventeen per cent during a corresponding period.

That the problem of operating the schools on a cash basis is becoming more difficult with the limitations of the Smith law and the reductions by the Budget Commission, which affects the allowance to schools is the opinion of Collins. The reduction in the allowance to schools has alone resulted in a cut in school funds of almost $8,050 annually.

Teachers are now being paid by using the total mill levy exclusively for this purpose. Recommendation of this policy has been forwarded to the board of education.

Further increase in salaries may be possible over the ten per cent increase granted at a meeting of the school board Monday night if funds are forthcoming from the Budget Commission which grants the city schools an equal share of the tax levy with the amount furnished in the division between the city and the public schools.

In accordance with this plan the teachers for the ensuing year have been engaged. Assignments of positions will be made before the opening of the coming year. Salaries are to be paid in ten monthly installments for a term of 9 1-2 months. The $50 war bonus granted the past year is to be construed as a part of the last year's salary and the ten per cent increas voted is above all consideration for the past school term. The raise effects teachers of all grades.

Teachers and instructors engaged for the term of 1919-1920 are as follows:

WEDDED BLISS OF AGED COUPLE ENDS ABRUPTLY

The dreams of romance and matrimonial bliss of Susan E. Barker and Surveidas H. Barker, aged couple, married last June, ended suddenly, according to a suit for divorce filed in common pleas court Tuesday by the wife in which she charges gross neglect of duty.

She alleges that Barker failed to provide for her and that she was forced to work for the support and upkeep of their joint home. The petition sets forth that he was able and physically qualified to furnish her the necessities of life. This he failed to do, she avers.

LABOR CONVENTION TO DEBATE LEAGUE TOMORROW

ATLANTIC CITY.—The American Federation of Labor convention will debate the league of nations tomorrow.

Discussion will center around the report of the executive council, which declares the league must have unqualified support and approval of the workers of America. It was a foregone conclusion that this report would be adopted, but league opponents showed enough strength to have President Gompers to set aside tomorrow as a day for debate on it.

It was learned today that Gompers appeared before the executive committee and urged against the proposition that his salary be increased from $7,500 a year to $10,000 or $12,000. Several resolutions raising his pay have been submitted. Gompers was reported to have told the committee that $7,500 was sufficient for his needs.

FOUR EXAMINATIONS FOR COUNTY TEACHERS

Examination of county school teachers will be reduced from the usual eight held during the year to a minimum of four, according to C. A. Arganbright, county school superintendent.

Tests will be made in May, June, August, and September. No teachers will be appointed until after September of each year. Certificates to teach will not be issued to any lacking normal school training.

WOMEN AT WORK

During the war, millions of women have been at work in vocations into which they have never before been called—in Munition Factories, Chemical Works, Metal Works, Street Railways, and as Ambulance Drivers, Barbers and Elevator Girls. Undoubtedly thousands of others have longed to serve in this way, but because of female ailments, which had fastened upon them, were not able to do so. Women in this condition should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and find health and strength, as thousands of others have so done.

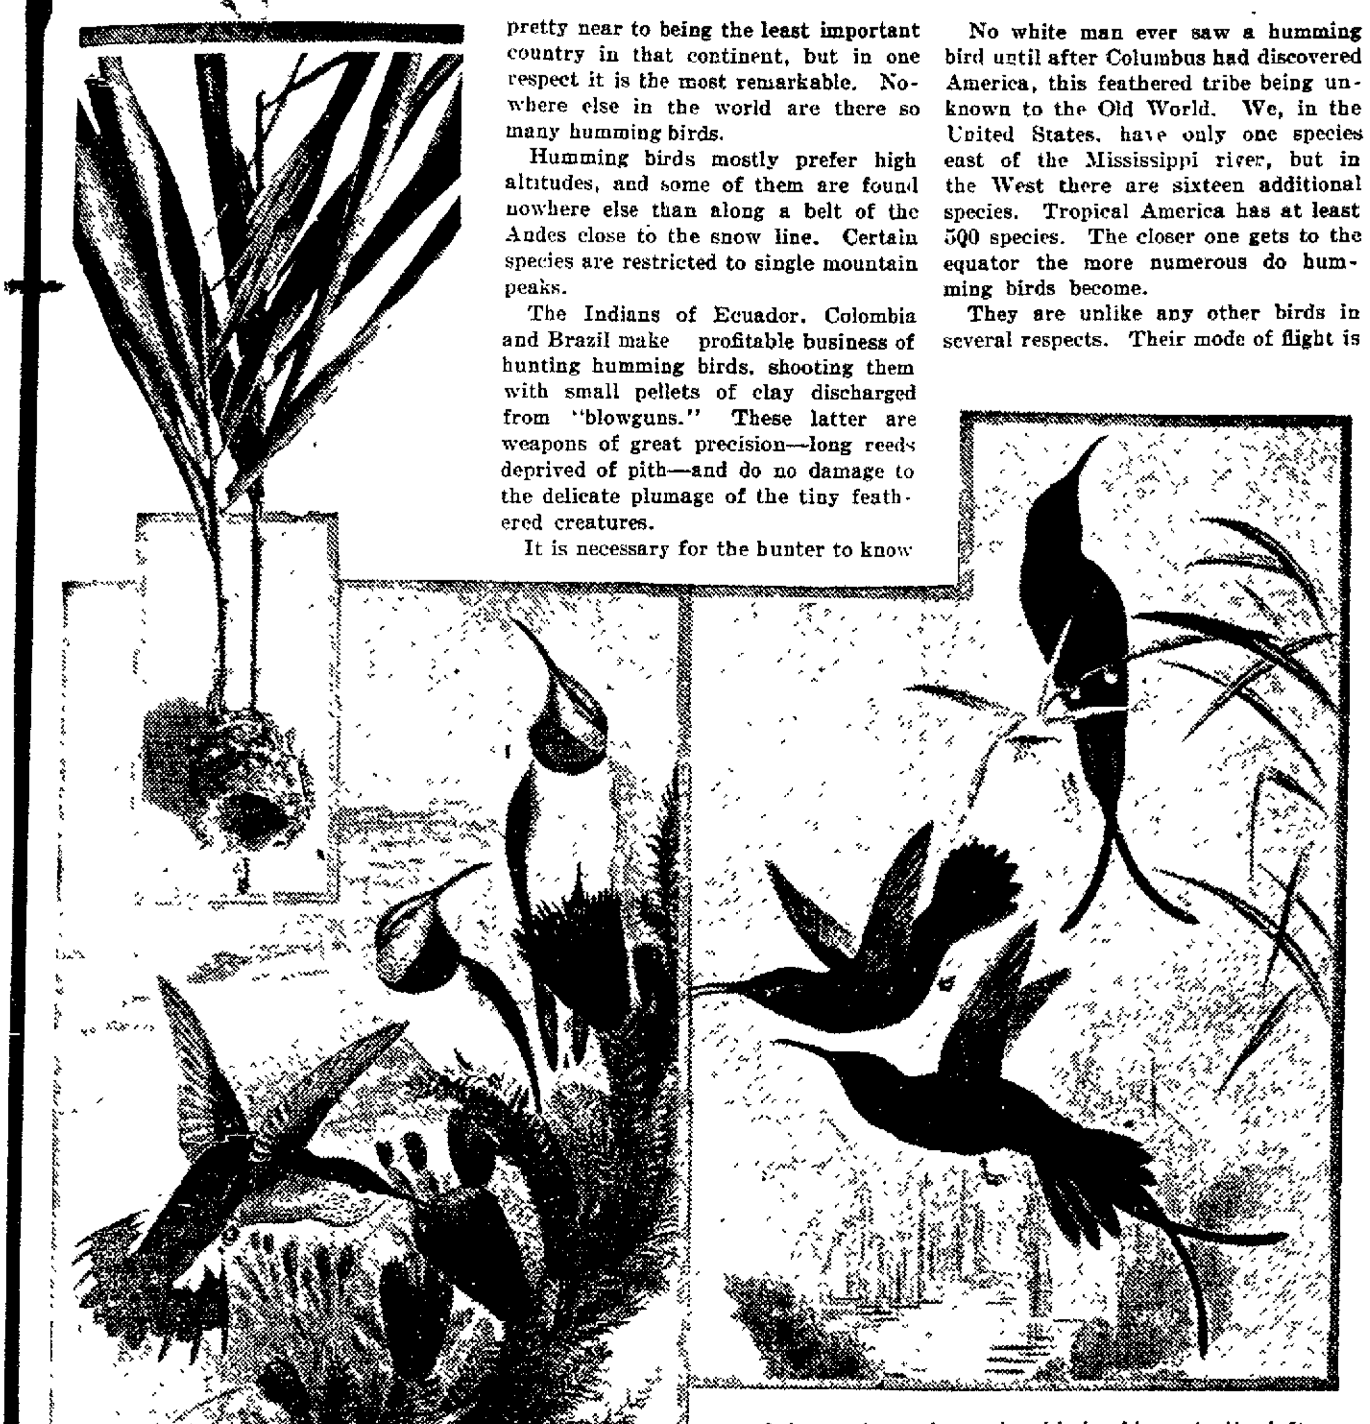
WHERE THE HUMMING BIRDS FLOCK



Crimson topaz humming bird. Above to the left is shown a nest of the hermit humming bird suspended from leaf end, while at the left we see the Chimborazo Hill star humming bird

AMERICAN women will wear no humming birds on their hats henceforth, no matter what the newest ideas of Parisian milliners may be, because Congress has forbidden their importation

That many species of these "feathered jewels" have been entirely exterminated is not surprising when one learns that in London the skins of humming birds are commonly sold for two cents apiece.

Not far from the northwest corner of South America is the small triangular republic of Ecuador. It comes pretty near to being the least important country in that continent, but in one respect it is the most remarkable. Nowhere else in the world are there so many humming birds.

Humming birds mostly prefer high altitudes, and some of them are found nowhere else than along a belt of the Andes close to the snow line. Certain species are restricted to single mountain peaks.

The Indians of Ecuador, Colombia and Brazil make profitable business of hunting humming birds, shooting them with small pellets of clay discharged from "blowguns." These latter are weapons of great precision—long reeds deprived of pith—and do no damage to the delicate plumage of the tiny feathered creatures.

It is necessary for the hunter to know how to skin the birds; and he must understand the art of preserving the skins, in order that they may reach the dealer in first-class condition. They are sold to agents, who ship them to Guayaquil and other seaports, whence they are exported to Europe.

London is the principal market, and in that city 400,000 humming bird skins have been sold at auction in a single week. But they are mostly prepared for millinery and other ornamental uses in France and Belgium—though in the latter country the industry has been interrupted by the war.

No white man ever saw a humming bird until after Columbus had discovered America, this feathered tribe being unknown to the Old World. We, in the United States, have only one species east of the Mississippi river, but in the West there are sixteen additional species. Tropical America has at least 500 species. The closer one gets to the equator the more numerous do humming birds become.

They are unlike any other birds in several respects. Their mode of flight is like that of a bee, their wings vibrating so rapidly (the rate is estimated at 500 times per minute) as to make a blur to the eye. Practically, they are unable to walk, relying wholly upon their wings for locomotion.

Their nests are built chiefly of plant-down, interwoven and strengthened with spiders' webs. In the forests of Brazil the "hermit" humming birds fasten their nests to the ends of long leaves, so that monkeys cannot get at them. The nests of other species resemble tiny hammocks attached to the face of rock or cliff with spider webs.

BUILDING A BRIDGE ACROSS THE PACIFIC

THE war has taught us much more about geography than we ever knew before. Among other things, we have learned that the German Ocean (called by the British the North Sea) is not an ocean at all in the ordinary sense of the word, but merely a vast shallow pond.

Just such another pond is Bering Sea—a shallow piece of salt water that is becoming steadily shallower, owing to the deposition on its bottom of enormous quantities of silt emptied into it by one of the greatest rivers in the world, the Yukon.

At no very distant period the whole of Bering Sea will be converted into dry land. Even now we can see the process going on. The detritus brought down by the Yukon is doing exactly what is accomplished in cities, where the refuse dumps eventually form great areas of new ground for the extension of streets and the foundations of houses.

The river is a land maker, and in the last century has added thousands of square miles to the territory of Alaska. It has built the whole of the immense Yukon Delta, and has made the waters off shore so shallow that even small vessels can hardly get within sight of the coast.

When Bering Sea has become Bering Land, it will be an extremely valuable piece of real estate. Its soil will be of high fertility, and its climate will be so far modified by the great warm current of the Pacific (corresponding to the Gulf Stream in the Atlantic, and flowing near what will then be the coast) as to encourage settlement.

In the meantime an even more striking, and much more rapid, geologic change is taking place in the same region. A land bridge is in process of building that will eventually connect the new world with the old, joining Alaska to Kamschatka.

A glance at a map will show that the southern boundary of Bering Sea is marked by a string of islands extending clear across from the American shore to that of Asia. These islands—the so-called Aleutian chain, supplemented by islands belonging to Russia—are, so to speak, the piers of the bridge that is to be.

The whole string is slowly but steadily rising—a phenomenon which geologists attribute to a gradual folding up of the earth's crust along that line. There are many gaps, but these are being filled in. Every now and then a new island pops up out of the sea in that region, helping toward the completion of the bridge.

Not very long ago an island suddenly arose from the ocean between Unalaska and Umnak. In the night a strange fire was seen, illuminating the sea brightly for many miles around. Finally a black rock rose up amid steam and smoke, and gradually it grew until it presented the aspect of a pyramid

Bogislof, a new pier of the land bridge

1500 feet high. The name Bogislof was bestowed upon it.

Another look at the map, and you will see that the southwestern tip of Alaska extends as an elongated peninsula far in the direction of Asia. It is the American abutment, nay, rather, the eastern section of the future land-bridge, already finished and ready. Over that bridge our descendants may some day travel direct by rail all the way from New York to Paris, and via Paris to London, through the tunnel beneath the British Channel that is soon to connect France with England.

Medicinal Drugs From the Fur Seals

THE fisheries bureau manages somehow to dig up a greater number of novel and picturesque ideas than any other branch of the government. Such, for instance—representing its recent output—as the use of whale meat for food, the tanning of shark-skin for leather, the canning of sea-mussels, and the gathering and preparation of a water-weed for the adornment of women's hats.

Its ideas, too, are practical. They work. So there is no reason to cavil at its newest suggestion, which is that the internal organs of the Alaskan fur seal may be profitably utilized for the production of certain drugs highly valuable in medicine

A batch of these organs was delivered recently to a well known pharmaceutical house in New York, to be submitted to laboratory tests with the above mentioned object in view.

Says the Fisheries Commissioner, Dr H. M. Smith: "It would not be surprising to find that an animal with such remarkable habits and endurance has developed in its pituitary, adrenal, pancreatic, and other glands physiological properties that may be of value in therapeutics If the laboratory report is favorable, the bureau will hereafter take steps to save all the fur seal organs that can be economically utilized"

Now, in order that this may be fully understood, it should be explained that within very recent years it has been discovered that certain glands of the sheep (and other mammals) produce secretions which to a great extent govern the mechanism of the animal's body—as, for example, the adrenal gland, whose special secretion controls blood pressure.

The same remark applies to the bodily functions of a human being If any one of these glands in a man fails to produce a normal supply of its special secretion, his health suffers. He may even die.

Suppose that the thyroid gland (in the throat) fails to do its full duty in this way. Trouble immediately follows If the affliction occurs in infancy (as too often happens), the result is "cretinism," which means that the child does not grow. Its bones do not develop, and commonly it is imbecile.

Nowadays, however, the skilled physician, when such a phenomenon is observed in his practice, prescribes for the child regular doses of "thyroid extract," obtained from the thyroid gland of the sheep Prompt improvement—often a complete cure—follows.

The extract (obtained from the gland ground to powder) is a true drug. So likewise are the extracts derived from the adrenal, the pituitary and other glands. Each of them has its medicinal usefulness.

The adrenal gland (in man and lower animals) forms a sort of cap on the top of each kidney. Its extract (usually obtained from the sheep) is medicinally employed to control blood-pressure and to counteract shock. It has a marked effect in contracting the capillary blood vessels, and for this reason is used by oculists in eye operations to prevent hemorrhage.

Extract of the pituitary gland (in the brain) is used by the obstetrician to hasten labor. Its specific secretion has much to do with the growth and development of the body. Disease of the organ is liable to produce the extraordinary phenomenon called "giantism," the sufferer from which, even though well past the growing age, may soon attain physical dimensions fitting him for a circus side-show.

Ask the average man where his pancreas is located, and he will reply, "Search me!" or words to that effect All the same, he could not get along without it, for it has importantly to do with the digestion of all the fats and starchy stuffs (such as bread) that he eats Its special secretion governs importantly intestinal digestion, the organ (which corresponds to the "sweetbread") being directly below the stomach

The "pineal" gland, at the base of the brain, was supposed by the ancients to be the seat of the soul Attempts to utilize its extract for medicinal purposes are as yet merely experimental.

But the point to be grasped is that the products of these various glands—not all of which have been mentioned here—are really valuable medicines. They have already saved a great number of human lives and have restored tens of thousands of sick people to health If the fur seal can contribute from its vital organs useful extracts of the kind it will have conferred upon mankind a far greater benefit than has been obtained from all the warmth and beauty of its skin

Salt and Water

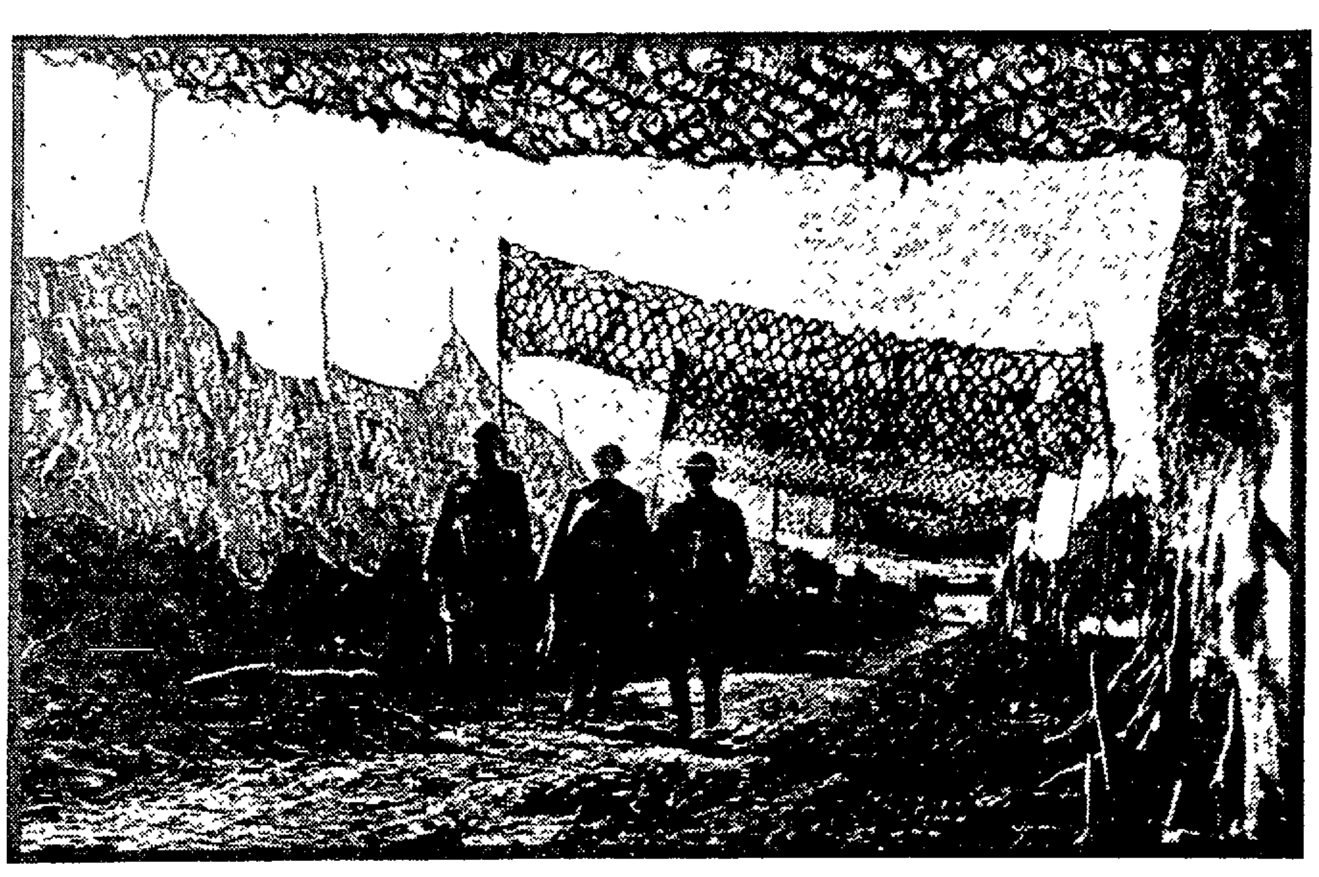
IF YOU will look at a geographical globe, it may surprise you to discover how little dry land there is beneath the Equator.

In fact, nearly all of the land of the terrestrial planet is in the Northern Hemisphere The bulk of South America lies below the Equator, likewise about one-third of Africa, and the whole of Australia. But all the rest is north of that line, barring islands and the mass at the South Pole.

The world is mostly water One per cent of the water in the oceans would cover all the land of the globe to a depth of 290 feet

Dissolved in the water of the oceans is enough salt to make 4,800,000 solid cubes, each of them one mile on an edge

Some of the Oddities Required in Camouflage



A camouflaged road in France

FOR some time before the war came to an end the American armies were using for "camouflage" purposes, per month:

Burlap, 4,500,000 square yards,

Chicken-wire net, 1,620,000 square yards,

Fish net, 1,000,000 square yards.

These were the three most important materials. They furnished indispensable elements of camouflage structures.

Further to make clear the enormous scale on which such work was conducted, it may be mentioned that the central camouflage factory, at Dijon, occupied twenty acres, with forty buildings, and employed about 200 soldiers and 900 French women.

The French were first to develop the art of camouflage in the war. In this line the Germans were prompt to imitate, and they did it with skill and ingenuity — though never equaling the cleverness of the Americans.

In the St. Mihiel sector the Germans constructed a wonderful piece of camouflage which the allies failed entirely to discover. It was not discovered, in fact, until the salient had been overrun and captured by the Americans.

It was an extensive area roofed with wire net at a height of fourteen feet above the ground, and covered (over the net) with scattered brush. Beneath it were a score of buildings, roads, ammunition dumps, and much other war material. Walking under the net, one could look up through it and see whatever was going on overhead, but, viewed from the sky it looked like a piece of woods.

There was the point. The camouflage was so perfect as to deceive the cameras carried by scouting allied airplanes. The photographs they delivered showed only woods.

The great problem of camouflage is to deceive the airplane's camera. To accomplish this purpose, the most effective means was a "flat top" of chicken wire or fish net, stretched between poles and decorated with numberless tied strips of inch-wide colored burlap a foot long, to flutter in the breeze and furnish shadows varying naturally with the time of day.

Photographed from far aloft, such an arrangement had the appearance of a wood or a field. A net thirty-seven feet square thus disguised affords protection for any gun up to the size of a 9.2-inch howitzer, with its crew. For a "stabilized"—i. e., permanently established—battery the camouflaged position may cover 1200 to 4000 square yards, or an area even greater.

The main and all-important use of camouflage is to conceal artillery. As the saying goes "a battery seen is a battery lost." Once located, the guns may be quickly and inevitably wiped out by shell-fire.

Selection of the ground is a matter demanding most expert judgment. Obviously it would not do to put a wood in a place where previously no wood existed. Even the stupidest Hun might suppose that a small forest could not grow up overnight. This is a simple proposition, but it illustrates the point.

Of vital consequence is the fact that the eye of the camera in the sky does not see things as we commonly see them. Take a field of grass for instance. To our eyes the field looks bright, the side of each blade reflecting light. The camera, from above, sees only the points of the blades, each of the latter throwing a shadow. About the roots there are masses of shadows. Consequently, from the sky, the grassy field looks dark.

It is quite another world that the airplane-borne camera sees; and no camouflage is possible without a thorough knowledge of airplane photography.

Cleaning by "Dry Method"

IN EARLIER days every trade had its secrets. They were even called "mysteries," and were commonly handed down from father to son, generation after generation.

Nowadays there are relatively few of these, but among them is the process known as "dry cleaning." Odd, too, because it is perfectly well understood—except by the average housewife, who might gain much convenience and save herself no little expense by knowledge of it.

There are some things that will not stand washing with water. They have, therefore, to be "dry cleaned." Among them are furs, delicate laces and many other articles.

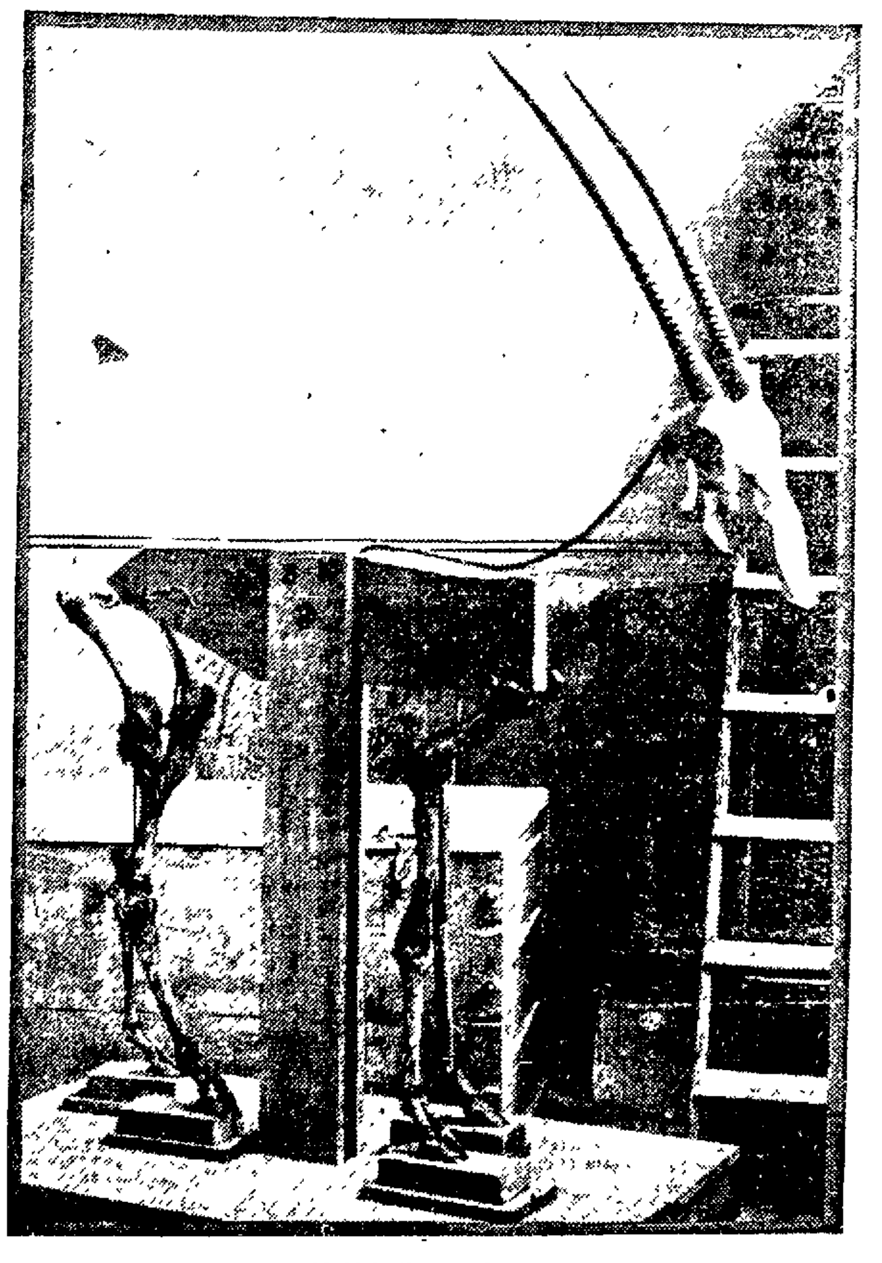
Mistress Housekeeper sends them off to a shop, whence they are returned beautifully "done up," but at a fancy price. The price is high chiefly for the reason that she is known to be ignorant of the inexpensiveness of the process.

Why should she not do her own dry cleaning? She can, if she wishes. All she needs is the very simple "know how."

A gallon of gasoline, with four tablespoonfuls of benzine, soap and two quarts of flour, will furnish the essentials. Stir thoroughly and work the mixture well into the fabric, giving special attention to spots. Let the dirty gasoline drain off; then rinse in clean gasoline and shake well until dry, brushing out all the flour.

She will then have a "dry-cleaned" garment (or other article), as satisfactorily treated as if she had sent it to a shop. But beware of fire. Strike no match and permit no open flame where the operation is going on.

Roosevelt's Antelope



Half-built antelope

SEE the skeleton.

Once it belonged to an antelope. The horns show that. And, manifestly, it was a South African antelope, because no animal found anywhere else in the world wears horns like those.

As a matter of fact, this antelope was shot in South Africa by that famous big-game hunter, Theodore Roosevelt. Having bagged it, he sent the skeleton and the hide to the National Museum at Washington, where the bones were put together and the beast restored by the skilled taxidermists of that establishment to a lifelike appearance. It has thus been preserved for the edification of the public.

In the photograph (taken at the Museum) the skeleton is seen in process of mounting. Iron rods fasten together its more important parts. Expert stuffing and the addition of the hide will complete the job of making a dead antelope look as if alive.

AS YOU LIKE IT

Here comes Tom Lambert, wireless engineer of San Francisco, with an amplifier idea which may or may not be fine stuff, depending on how you look at it.

Says Tom:

"A man's voice can be made as loud as the canno's roar; it can be heard two or 20 miles. The ticking of a watch can be amplified until it sounds like breakers on an ocean cliff.

"It's no trick at all to magnify sound 5,000,000 times, or indefinitely. All that is needed is to connect a number of vacuum valves in multiple with a wireless receiving set and the thing is done."

* * *

Can you imagine what life would be if everybody talked thru one of those vacuum valves?

Little Willie never could alibi himself out of a scolding by saying he didn't hear mother call him to go and run to the store for a loaf of bread, quick for supper.

Life would be a weary grind for Willie—always within hearing distance of mother's magnified voice!

And, say, listen to this:

Vocal cannonading thru the wife's amplifier when friend husband drifts in after the poker party will leave no neighbor in doubt about what's being said to him. Only the deaf in the farthest away suburbs won't hear her.

* * *

And—horrors!—how'll the movie be like if the pest who insists upon whispering during the most important flashes does his whispering thru an amplifier?

* * *

Funny thing happened the other day in London Prominent scientists were talking about the voice amplifier. One said the first successful vacuum valve would be presented to the queen of England.

And then the band just happened to play "God Save the King."

* * *

Tom Lambert adds by way of proof

"In the stadium at Golden Gate Park the ticking of a watch was made audible all over the grand stand while an athletic meet was in progress."

Also, this:

"A wireless station recently received a telephone message from Europe and through its amplifier startled duck hunters in the marshes eight miles away."

* * *

An amplifier on the alarm clock would wake up everybody in the city at the same time Let the Daylight Savers ponder on that

But, the quitting time whistle will never need an amplifier, we all can hear that easily enough now

And mother will never need an amplifier when she calls the family to the dinner table

Watch The Packers

THE PEOPLE of this country have won an important victory in the decision of the government to sell vast stores of food bought for the army before the war ended. This food amounts to a billion meals. The placing of it on the market will greatly affect the price of both cured and fresh meat.

SINCE UNCLE Sam has decided that this food will be sold, he should take every precaution to prevent the packers from getting control of it to keep prices up. It could be secretly purchased by commission men for the big packing industries, therefore the middle-man should be eliminated and the food sold direct to the people by the government.

IT IS TRUE that the meat is in cans larger than the average family would require, but this could be handled by a number of families clubbing together and buying provisions, then dividing them according to their needs. In this way much money could be saved.

THE GOVERNMENT soon will send out circulars advertising the sale of these products. The people should look into the matter and not lose a chance to cut down the high cost of living.

Getting Settled

ACTIONS of many men remind us of the old story of the young oak which never was satisfied with its location. It had become rooted in a very suitable place for an oak tree, but decided that it wanted to move over to another field. After a time there it thought the forest the place for it. There the mature trees cut off the sunlight and it dwindled. It moved again and as a result what early in life had the prospects of a giant tree amounted to little or nothing.

THE SAME tree is true of man. He should make up his mind early for what he is suited and desires and then go in heart and soul for success. It is seldom that the rolling stone accumulates much. It is the individual with a well-defined program that makes progress in these days of strong competition.

WE OFTEN hear young men lamenting the fact that there are not the opportunities today that were offered some time ago They are mistaken. There are more chances for advancement today than ever before They have only to look about for them and then take advantage of them.

Broken Glass

PROBABLY never before was there so much broken glass scattered about the streets of Lima It is a common sight to see broken particles on almost any thorofare one travels. A few days ago there was an accident of some kind at the corner of Main and High street, one of the busiest corners in the city, and the street was filled with sharp pieces of glass. It remained there for a number of days

THESE particles are dangerous, especially to motorists. Tires suffer It is not a good advertisement for the city for visitors to see these things. The street [illegible] department should give attention to such matters

CONFESSIONS of an EVERY DAY WIFE

BY IDAH M'GLONE GIBSON

THEO TRIES TO MAKE AMENDS

"Margot, you did not do that," exclaimed Eliene, when I told her I had congratulated the Major.

"Why not? I really think I might have that reward after my work for him and you."

"You deserve anything and everything, that not only I can give you, but all the good that anyone else can give, and I want you to understand if Sallie Saunders begins any of her blandishments on Theo, why I'll take that young lady in hand myself."

I looked up and found it was growing light.

"I must go now, Eliene," I exclaimed. "It is near morning. The light is breaking over there. I'll just tiptoe into my room, so as not to wake Theo."

I need not have worried, for after I had undressed I peeped into Theo's room and found him lying across his bed with all his clothes on, in drunken, sodden sleep.

"She has begun her work," I said to myself bitterly. "She has already made Theo forget his promise to me about drinking."

I crept back to bed, but I could not sleep, and finally about nine o'clock I heard Theo get up clumsily and with a few muttered curses go into the bath room

My head was splitting and I could answer truly when he put his head through my door after his bath and asked in surprise: "Are you ill, Margot? I thought you would be up hours ago."

"My head is aching and I am feeling much too ill to get up," I answered.

He went back to his room to dress without a word. I knew that he did not dare to come over and kiss me for fear that I would catch the odor of liquor on his breath. I heard him brush his teeth and gargle his throat with extra care and my soul fairly sickened at the thought that he was preparing to betray me with a kiss

In a moment he came in and coming up to my bed he laid beside me six beautiful pairs of silk stockings, saying "I saw these yesterday and thought you would like them"

"Then your business was successful?"

"Fairly so. Don't you like the stockings, Margot?" he asked, for I had not touched them.

I felt it was impossible for me to touch them, as I knew that Sallie Saunders had not only selected them, but she probably had duplicated the order for herself.

Sometimes I wonder just how far a gift that costs a man nothing but money goes toward salving his conscience after he has done something that he knows would hurt his wife extremely.

It is a very easy way to even things and lately I have almost gotten to the place where I wonder what Theo has been doing whenever he brings me a bouquet of flowers or any other present. I think, however, I would have been pleased with the stockings, for they were particularly expensive and beautiful, if I had not realized that Sallie Saunders was gloating over the idea of picking them out for me under circumstances that would make me writhe if I had known it

Well, I did know and was writhing, but I managed to answer: "I do not like anything this morning, even myself."

'But you must love me, Margot," said Theo with his mouth upcurling.

He waited a minute for me to answer, but I could not have told him I loved him if it would have saved his life, for right beside him I saw Sallie Saunders' wickedly bright green eyes. She had resented very greatly the way I had treated her in New York and the way I had kept away from her since her illness when she told how she had betrayed Tim. And yet, I could tell him that I saw him walking the streets of ———, probably his way to buy these very stocking for he would immediately as "Why were you over there?"

"Well, try and rest," he said ea ily, "and I will be home early a take you out for a little ride. T air may do you good. Do you wa me to do anything for you th morning?'

"No, Theo, I will not bother yo as you will probably be very bu finishing up the business that too you out of town yesterday," I sai

Theo looked at me curiously fo a moment, then turned quickl away to hide from me the color tha I knew he felt surging to his face.

So Big And Yet So Small!

Seen by itself, Swift & Company is one of the largest manufacturers and distributers of animal food products in the country.

Seen in relation to the total food business of the world, its size diminishes to small proportions.

We handle only about 22 per cent of the total output of the hundreds of packing plants under federal inspection, and only about 12 per cent of the total meat supply of the nation.

We handle only about 6 per cent of the total quantity of butter, eggs, and poultry sent to market in the United States.

Our tanneries handle less than 15 per cent of the hides made into leather in the United States.

Our soap factories make less than 10 per cent of the soap output of the nation.

This is done in keen and open competition with every concern handling these products, and at a profit of a fraction of a cent per pound.

In the meat packing industry there is noone dominant concern handling a large proportion of the output.

Today's Health Hints

SEASICKNESS AND CAR SICKNESS

Seasickness and car sickness (steam car, trolley car or automobile) seem to be due to a disturbance of the lymph circulation in the semicircular canals of the internal ear Among the symptoms produced by hyperemia or congestion of th part of the delicate mechanism of the internal ear are vertigo (dizziness) nausea tinnitus (head noises) and sometimes vomiting

If cold water gains entrance to the ear canal of one with a perforation of the ear drum, as in swimming or in careless syringing of the ear, a sudden vertigo or dizziness severe enough to render the victim temporarily helpless may supervene This fact undoubtedly accounts for many cases of drowning popularly attributed to 'cramps,' especially in persons known to be good swimmers It is wise, therefore, for one with a perforation of the drum to insert in the ears a piece of lamb's wool or cotton before entering the water

Reverse peristalsis, that is, a tendency toward reversal of the downward direction of stomach and intestinal wave movements, accounts for the distressing symptoms of seasickness or car sickness Reverse peristalsis, in fact, is the direct cause of all vomiting, also of many instances of "water brash," belching of gas, bad taste, coated tongue heartburn and the like Besides the effect of congestion of the internal ear, there is every reason to assume that pronounced defects of vision uncorrected or not fully corrected by glasses may contribute to seasickness and car sickness in many cases Here is one of numerous examples of the value of "drops" as an aid in the measurement of vision for without the aid of drops it is difficult or impossible to make a mathematically accurate measurement of vision in most persons under middle age

All sorts of remedies have been used for the prevention of sea sickness Perhaps the most satisfactory is a small dose of sodium bromide, say four grains after each meal for two days before beginning the journey and for the first day of the journey This may be taken in an effervescent draught by adding to the bromide a few grains of sodium bicarbonate, and mixing with some lemon juice or lemonade For two days or more before the journey it is well to see that thorough peristaltic action is maintained taking, if necessary one or more daily doses of some laxative preferably a saline cathartic (salts of any kind) The saline most agreeable for the purpose is a bottle of solution of magnesium citrate freshly prepared by the pharmacist, half the contents on rising, the other half about an hour later. Dr Nathan Rosewater of Cleveland extols the use of one sixtieth of a grain of strychnine sulphate and one two hundredth of a grain of atrophine sulphate, an hour before meals for a day or two before the journey to increase the peristaltic force of stomach and intestine He suggests that famous A B S. (aloin, belladonna and strychnine) tablet combines the laxative and peristaltic stimulation required to prevent seasickness. The effervescent magnesium citrate seems preferable to aloes as a laxative.

PHYSICALLY FIT AT ANY AGE

It isn't age, it's careless living that puts men "down and out." Keep your internal organs in good condition and you will always be physically fit.

The kidneys are the most overworked organs in the human body. When they break down under the strain and the deadly uric acid accumulates and crystallizes look out! These sharp crystals tear and scratch the delicate urinary channels causing excruciating pain and set up irritations which may cause premature degeneration and often do turn into deadly Bright's Disease.

One of the first warnings of sluggish kidney action is pain or stiffness in the small of the back, loss of appetite, indigestion or rheumatism.

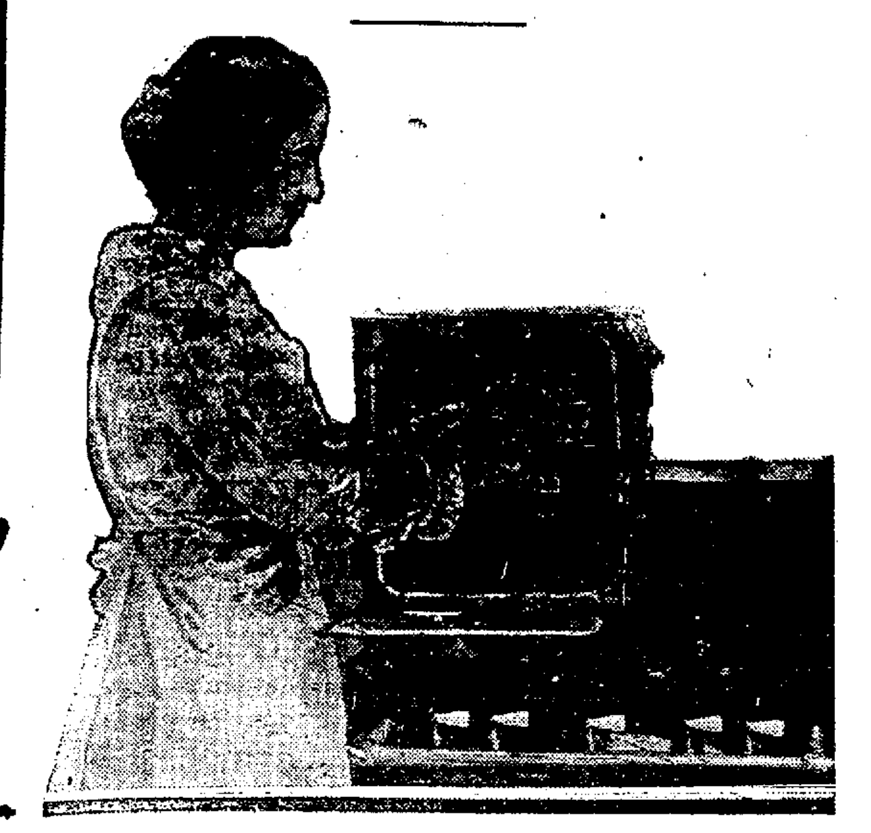
GAS BILLS DROP WHEN TRICKS OF COOKING RANGE ARE KNOWN



Removable Oven Saves Gas With Dishes Requiring Short-Tmie Baking

Are you acquainted with your gas range? If you are not, it will pay you well to take time to learn more about it.

Many experiments are being tried on gas ranges in the experimental kitchen of the Office of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, and interesting results are being obtained. You will find it worth while to try some of the same experiments with your stove; others will probably suggest themselves, and your acquaintance with the stove will increase accordingly.

How much gas dô you use when you are getting the Sunday dinner? You can find out by reading the gas meter before the cooking starts and after the cooking is done. If you do not remember just how to read it, ask the gas man to explain it to you when he comes around the next time. The habit of reading the meter once a week and comparing amounts used will help to keep gas saving in mind and make it possible to calculate your gas bill.

In the preparation of that dinner count the ways by which you could save gas. If you are one of the many who light the gas before the teakeetle is filled and who forget to turn off the heat the minute the pie is baked, you will find those are good times to begin to save.

If you test the heat given by various kinds of flames, you will find that the short, stiff, clear, blue flame brings best results. It is a waste of time and gas to use the high, smoking, yellow flame, which results when too much air is mixed with the gas and which you can prevent by partially closing the air shutter. Never turn the flame so high that it is brought up close to the kettle and flares around it, for this wastes gas, makes the flame less hot and blackens the kettle.

Many gas stoves have at least four kinds of burners—including a giant burner and a simmerer—and a large part of gas economy consists in knowing which one to use, and when.

TRY THE SIMMERER.

If you consider the little simmerer burner on your range a mere ornament and of no real use you are underrating its value. It uses from one-fifth to one-sixth as much gas as the other top burners and will keep a kettle boiling after it has been brought to the boil on one of the other top burners. The giant burner uses from three to six cubic feet an hour more than the other top burners, so it should be used only when absolutely necessary. As soon as a kettle boils, see how far you can turn the gas down and still keep it boiling. The experimental kitchen has found that it will continue to boil with the burner turned down from one-half to one-third. Also, if that pan or kettle is large bottomed, the gas will be better utilized than if it is smaller than the burner.

KEEP THE BURNERS CLEAN.

The easiest way to keep burners clean, of course, is by the ounce-of-prevention method. Never allowing boiling over is the best way of keeping the burners clean, but if the accident should happen the burners can be removed easily and scrubbed in soap and water. A wire will assist in cleaning the holes if they still remain clogged.

The range oven requires much more gas an hour than one top burner does, so it must be used carefully if the gas bill is to be reduced. If you do much baking in small quantities you can save gas with a small removable oven to be used on the top of the stove. Tests showed a great difference when one-egg cakes were baked for one hour at the same temperature in the small and range ovens. In the small oven the cake required seven cubic feet of gas while in the range oven it required twelve cubic feet, a difference in cost, when figured at $1 for 1,000 cubic feet, of one-half cent for the one cake.

REMOVABLE OVEN IN GAS SAVING.

The time required to heat the oven before baking begins also varies greatly in the two kinds. The small oven will come up to 500 degrees F. in five minutes while the range oven requires twenty to thirty. Therefore, if the oven is to be used for only a short time the small oven would be a great advantage.

The small oven, nevertheless, has its disadvantages. A cake so big that its edges are rather close to the sides of the oven will not be well baked, because the heat at the sides will be much greater than in the center. Dishes requiring an even temperature, a very high or a very low temperature for a certain length of time, are not successfully baked in the small oven unless close attention is paid to the regulation of the heat. This is true because the temperature of the oven is variable. Its sides are thin and the bottom does not well retard the passage of heat. For the breakfast muffins or the baking powder biscuits for dinner, however, the small oven is excellent.

If one dish of the meal should require the range oven, plan to bake as much of the remainder of the dinner as possible, for in that way the heat will not be wasted. For instance, if the main dish of the meal is to be a big casserole of tomato, cheese and rice, it would be wise to choose baked potatoes rather than boiled, and a baked dessert in preference to a pudding made in the double boiler. If oven room permits, muffins or biscuits would add greatly to the meal and would require little extra fuel.

USE FIRELESS COOKER TO KEEP LUNCH HOT

When doing many kinds of winter farm work men find it necessary to carry a noon lunch. Without the aid of a fireless cooker this meal is usually cold and consequently unappetizing on a day when the mercury hovers near the zero point.

A home-made fireless cooker constructed from a galvanized iron bucket with a cover, according to directions given in Farmers' Bulletin 771—on home-made fireless cookers and their use—will enable a hot meal to be served in the woods or elsewhere on the coldest of days. There is little time or expense entailed in the maunfacture of these time savers and comfort givers.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest St. Jacobs Liniment

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 30 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Liniment" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

DRESSED FOR ALL TIME AND AFFAIRS

© UNDERWOOD

By ELOISE

The separate skirt is always with us and this year it comes in many new designs which are more attractive than the old white duck skirts of long ago. Because skirts are popular and a necessity in the smart woman's wardrobe is no reason for them becoming expensive. Many attractive skirts may be bought with a lean purse this year and they are a particularly good investment when one realizes that they may be worn at any hour of the day and upon any occasion. With a tailored blouse they are the most practical thing for sports wear and with a dainty Russian blouse they make an attractive and cool frock for the informal summer hotel dances.

This skirt is gross barred voile with an embroidered dot. The gathered yoke is made of plain voile. Two inverted tucks and pockets form a trimming. The blouse in all its frilly whiteness with a touch of blue edging the frills is also for a lean purse and with a few such inexpensive skirts and blouses any woman can look well-dressed and cool upon any occasion that the summer days may bring.

The choice of a hat to wear with such costumes may rest with the individual. Some prefer the straight sailor, others large floppy garden hats, and still others silk and satin sport hats in delicate colors. It is another good feature of the white outfit that the hat is easily chosen.

More than $10 was realized from this entertainment.

IN SUSIE SMART'S DAILY MAIL

Dear Miss Smart: I am a gi nineteen years of age.

(1) I had a dispute with a frien of mine. He says it is the girl' place to speak first, and if the gir doesn't speak he will not speak a all. I do not call that right. Wha do you you think about it?

(2) My mother has always had to speak to him first and I think it wrong. I have always respected older people and would wish him to do so too, but he says I am all wrong.

(3) Which hand does the engagement ring belong on? Does the wedding ring belong on the same finger?

GRACE.

(1) It is the girl's place to speak first. The man, however, should look recognition. It is customary for both to speak at the same time—as soon as their eyes meet. If the man does not show recognition by a smile or the light in his eyes, he does not deserve to be spoken to.

(2) The young man should not think about who should speak first. He should tip his hat to your mother as soon as they see each other.

(3) The engagement ring is worn on the third finger of the left hand. The wedding ring is worn on the same finger.

* * *

Dear Miss Smart: I am a girl who has not gone with many young men. For the past year I have been keeping company with a young man who has good habits and is admired by everyone, but he does not attend church. Ihave been brought up with the idea that people should go to Sunday scchool and church every week, and I cannot understand this man's lack or religion.

I have consented to marry him if he will join church. He says that he does not want to and that I should not ask him to do so. He does not want to belong to any church, although he attends with me and says he will always do so.

Don't you think that he would join willingly if he loved me enough?

WANDA

I do not think you should insist that the young man join your church. Each one should be permitted to live up to his highest convictions. Be satisfied that he is willing to go to church with you.

His objection does not indicate lack of love.

* * *

Dear Miss Smart: I kept company with a young man who was drafted. While he was in camp we corresponded, and also after he went to France. In our letters we were simply friends, but I could tell he valued my friendship very much.

I like this soldier better than any of my other boy friends, but we have never been sweethearts or talked of getting married.

He is back from France now and he brought me a wrist watch. I accepted it because I couldn't bear to hurt his feelings. Do you think I should give it back now? I don't want him to lose his good opinion of me, and if I compromised myself by taking it I will give it back. What do you think.

SOLDIER'S FRIEND.

A girl is not supposed to accept jewelry from a man except from her fiance or a relative. It does seem heartless, however, to return the soldier's gift. He will not think less of you, I am sure, if you keep it. Since you like him so much you are not accepting the gift for its value, but for the spirit in which it was given.

* * *

Dear Miss Smart: What would you recommend as a good tonic? I always get thin in hot weather.

Drink a glass of buttermilk about twice a week. This is considered very good as a tonic.

BEVERAGES FOR SUMMER

Elderberry Wine—To every quart of berries add three quarts rain water; let it ferment for ten days, then strain off juice add three pounds sugar; let it ferment another ten days; then bottle it, but do not cork it up. Strain it through a cloth before you bottle it.

Along about Christmas you can bottle it over and cork it up.

Lemon Pop—Place two ounces ginger root (crushed) in pot, add two pounds sugar and three quarts boiling water, juice of seven lemons and two ounces cream of tartar. Let stand until lukewarm, then add half cake yeast dissolved in half cup of water, stir well.

Cover and let stand eight hours in warm room; strain through flannel bag and bottle. Set bottles in a cool place and put on ice as required for use.

Dandelion Wine—Two quarts or a little more of young dandelion blossoms. Pour over them one gallon boiling water; let stand twenty-four hours, then run through a cheesecloth and put in a crock with a piece of dry toast floating on top, on which place a cake of compressed yeast. Add two lemons and two oranges sliced.

Leave about a week then lift off bread and strain again through cloth. Put in a jug and add three pounds granulated sugar and then it starts to ferment.

Always keep it filled up so it will bubble out into a pan placed under the jug. Strain it again when through working, put it back into jug, put cork on lightly until all gas is out, then clarify with white of egg and bottle.

This is of excellent flavor and very clear when made according to directions.

FOR THE TABLE

Beef or Veal Loaf—One pound beef one poound veal, one pound pork, one tablespoon salt, one scant teaspoon pepper, one scant teaspoon ginger one tablespoon lemon juice, two well beaten eggs one cup cracker crumbs, one and one-half cups milk.

Blend well, pack in pan and bake one and three-fourths hours.

Date Pudding — Mix thoroughly and then bake for twenty minutes the following ingredients: One cup ground nuts, one cup ground dates, one cup bread crumbs, one cup sugar, one cup milk, two teaspoons baking powder, pinch of salt, one egg, well beaten. Serve with plain or whipped cream. This formula serves eight and is very delicious.

Salad—Take desired number of apples, pare and core. Have thin syrup of sugar and water boiling, color red with vegetable coloring and boil apples in this till done; care must be taken to retain shape. They color to resemble tomatoes. Let cool, place filling of chopped nuts inside and serve with mayonaisse dressing. The date pudding and salad are very simple to make and are good served the day after they are made.

IS FIRST AVIATRIX TO LOOP-THE-LOOP

Miss Josephino Dunn.

Miss Josephine Dunn is a student in aviation who is performing all sorts of aerial stunts at the U. S air field at Atlantic City, N. J Miss Dunn, who is but sixteen years old, is a graduate aviatrix. Her teacher was Eddie Stinson, who is the brother of Katherine Ctinson, another fair aviator. Miss Dunn has performed the loop-the-loop and is the first woman to do that stunt. She is a native of Mississippi.

Stuffed Green Peppers — Grind what is left of a cold roast of beef, add two cups of steamed rice, one cup tomatoes, salt and pepper, and all the cold gravy that is left from the roast; the more of the latter the better. Stuff the peppers with the dressing and stand them straight up in a casserole. Place what is left of the dressing in around the peppers, add a little water and bake about two hours. This makes a very good casserole dish even without the peppers and is very nourishing and economical.

Kidney Stew—Take heaping tablespoon of lard or drippings, put in frying pan to get hot Have your kidney cut in pieces size of a walnut, put in pan and cut a large onion over it. (Do not boil kidney first—the strength is gone). Put lid on and let simmer over a slow fire until tender and brown and lard all fried. Then sprinkle a tablespoonful of flour over, salt and pepper, water and vinegar, to taste. This makes a nice gravy—not too thick

Date Custard—Scald two cups of milk in a double boiler, then add three tablespoons of cornstarch, mixed with a little cold milk Cook directly over the fire for five minutes, then let cook in a double boiler for fifteen minutes Beat one egg slightly, add to it one-half cup of sugar and one-eight teaspoon of salt, add a little of the hot mixture to the egg and pour all into the double boiler Cook for one minute, add two-thirds cupful of steamed dates, stoned and cut, and one-half teaspoon of vanilla. Serve cold

Vegetable Soup Without Stock—Chop rather fine potato, onion, carrot and a little cabbage, and celery if desired. In a porcelain or aluminum kettle melt a piece of butter size of a walnut; add vegetables and stir occasionally so that they will not burn; fry thoroughly. This starts the juice of the vegetable. Salt and pepper; add small amount of water and cook hard from thirty to forty-five minutes, adding more water as it needs, but being careful not to burn. When cooked add sufficient water for number of dishes required. This is especially good for a small family.

Egg Beer—The following is a cool summer drink. It takes only a minute or two to make and is good.

Beat till light one egg (or two if you like) in a pitcher that drink is to be served from Add one tablespoon of granulated sugar. Fill pitcher full with iced or cool well water, then add three tablespoons vinegar and a pinch or two of soda. The soda will foam.

More sugar and vinegar may be added according to your taste

When My Baby Came

WHEN they put that warm, fragrant little bundle into my arms and told me he was perfect, I cried. I was so happy.

Of course, I was going to nurse him. And so I did, for two months. But he didn't gain weight as fast as he should.

Then the doctor told me not to worry, and that often mothers couldn't nurse their babies.

"The nearest thing to mother's milk I know of," he said, "is Nestlé's Milk Food.

"Of course, he has to have milk in some form—and Nestlé's is pure milk only made easier to digest because the tough curds are broken up. To that they add just the right amount of sugar and cereal, so you only add water to Nestlé's, boil it, and your baby has all the nourishment he needs in the safest form."

Then, when he began to gain weight—when the dimples began to show on his knees and his plump little elbows—I knew what happiness really was!

The Nestlé Company sent me free a Mother's Book on how to take care of baby, and enough of the Food for twelve feedings.

If you fill out and send the coupon below, I know they will be glad to help you as they helped me, and as they have been helping mothers all over the world fo fifty years.

Nestlé's is pure milk in powder form that is already modified and does not require the further addition of milk. Always pure and safe, always uniform, and free from the dangers of home modification, Nestle's has stood the test of three generations and has today the largest sale of any baby food in the world.

Athletic Club Stakes Life On Bouts

Completing final arrangements for the three bouts to be scheduled Thursday night, the Lima Athletic Club is staking everything on the big show. Should it be a success, the like of the club is assured, according to the promoters

With Mike O'Leary, local boy, to fight the big event of the evening, his bout alone, should prove a big drawing card for the Lima fans If the expectations of the promoters of the club are fulfilled, the seating capacity of the arena will be taxed to its utmost

O'Leary's bout with Knock Out Brown, will prove the big event of the evening Both men are anxious to get into the ring, while both are assuring the management of a hard fight for the honors

Despite the fact that he is young and new in the game, the Lima lad has talent, and will give the more experienced man a fight for the prize Brown's long list of victories over artists who have been noted for their speed and ability, may give him a shade of a lead over the younger boxer, yet the afray is sure to be one of the most interesting ever seen here

Freddie Hammond of Detroit will mix with Webb of Dayton for an eight round tilt while Kid Hindoo of local fame and Young Klur of Toledo who will enter the ring for a twelve round go will total the rounds of the evening, to thirty

The seating capacity of the arena being constructed at the Murphy street ball park has been fixed at 2,000, yet despite this comparatively large capacity the interest that is being manifested in the fights at present, promise an overflow

JACK FINDS THIS BAG MORE DURABLE THAN SOME OF HIS SPARRING PARTNERS

By N E Brown

TOLEDO O —(Special)—"What kind of a fellow is this bird Dempsey? Is he as fast as everybody says he is?"

These are the first questions fired at anyone who has seen the challenger for Jess Willard's heavyweight crown in action

The quickest way of describing Dempsey is to call him a 'young short horn bull ' This doesn't fit him exactly either, because there is nothing awkward about his rushing about the ring as there is in a young bull's methods

Dempsey is a lot more like a Wildcat He's the fastest heavy weight I've ever seen in action The old-timers now watching both fighters in workouts at the training camps say the only big fellow they know of who could be compared with Dempsey, as far as speed is concerned, would be Gentleman Jim Corbett

Dempsey fights from a semi-crouching position—the usual pose of a walloping, tearing-in, give and take fighter Because he is fast on his feet as well with his hands he is never off his balance—is always set to tear in more and back up his wallops with his body

DEMPSEY ISN'T HUGE

He isn't a big man by any means He's husky and splendidly built, but cannot be called big

What struck me first as I watched him work out the first time was his back The skin of a broad, well-shaped back is drawn taught over what seems like a thousand muscles These muscles ripple and play as he steps about the ring in sparring or punching the bag before stepping into the ring

His arms and shoulders are bulging with firm muscles, too Someone has called him the "gorilla man" because of his general build but this is a misnomer, in a way, because his arms are not abnormally long as are the arms of many of the stocky, tough fighters in the ring today. He is perfectly proportioned, to my way of thinking This perfect proportion extends into his legs, too Most fighters of his type are burdened with heavy legs which tend to slow them down Dempsey's legs are well formed His thighs taper well, his calves are large, but his ankles are well formed and his feet are of medium size He works on his toes continually—except when he is sending pile driving blows into the pit of the stomach of his opponent at close range forcing him back across the ring Then he is standing flat footed, feet wide apart

DEVELOPS PILE-DRIVING BLOWS

He winds up his day's workout by standing this way before a huge heavy bag and driving his fists full force into the leather dummy Two of his camp aides attempt to hold the bag nearly firm while he whales away at it, but are forced to give it up The force of his wallops against the bag knocks them off their balance

The Jamaica Kid, one of Dempsey's main sparring mates, is a husky negro, on the order of Dempsey, though smaller. Dempsey hits him off the canvas once or twice a day with one of these blows to the stomach This with the big ten-ounce pillows used for gloves

DEMPSEY LOOKS FIT TODAY

Dempsey is ready to step into the ring He says so His manager, Jack Kearns says so, too, and he looks it This is because of the unique system of training he is following He is being groomed on a basis of a theoretical fight a week That is, he starts out lightly on Monday and gradually increases the duration and speed of his training daily until the end of the week, when he proceeds to go the limit The following week he takes it easy. Then the next week he preps himself for another battle His schedule is such that he will be training the week of the big show, July Fourth, and will be ready to go full speed the day of the bout

The merits of this system are left for another discussion

DIRECTOR ABSENT

Morey Says He May Ask Cut In Salary

Two weeks ago the clerk of council was instructed to notify both the safety director and service director that their presence would be both satisfactory and expected at future council meetings

At Monday night's meeting Colonel Gale, safety director, was present but service director Metheany was conspicuously absent.

Several questions which Metheany only could answer were put before council, and C J Morey finally said, "Well, where is he, anyway?"

"Metheany is determined not to come to council meetings," said Morey, "just because we have ordered him to If he does not show up at the next regular council meeting I am going to make a motion to have his salary cut back to $1,800. He was a better service director before he was raised."

EXTRA CARS PROVIDED BY O. E. FOR CONVENTION

Additional street car service is being provided to care for the large number of delegates to the G. A. R. convention. Cars meet all incoming trains and lines over the western section of the city have also received added equipment.

"Nothing is being overlooked to provide adequate service for the veterans and their friends," according to City Superintendent Smamer.

EVENTS, NATIONAL AND LOCAL, WILL MAKE SPORT HISTORY ON FOURTH

Independence day, 1919 promises more and bigger things than any red letter day in the history of the sport world has boasted of. With the biggest of big boxing matches scheduled for that day, and with no town in the country left without some big sport event in view, Fourth of July of this year is going to leave a lasting impression on the Sport World.

Jess Willard and the Dempsey gloved demon are scheduled for the world championship tilt on that day, and are the objects for a great deal of comment. Then comes the track meet that the American Industrial Athletic Association is going to stage at Gary, Ind., to say nothing of the big league games that will be fought out that day.

Even here in Lima, big things are promised sport fans. Auto races, of the real kind seem a probability as a local attraction, while a number of motorcycle races are assured. Over $1,000 in prizes are to be handed out at the fair grounds on that day, and from all indications, some clever riders will be on the track to compete for the honors as well as the coin.

All in all, July 4, 1919, looks like a record breaker in the history of the sport world.

LIMA ATHLETIC CLUB ON ROAD TO SUCCESS

With the finishing touches being put upon the coming bouts being arranged by the newly created Lima Athletic Club, prospects seem bright for the establishment of real sport in Lima.

With the membership of the club gradually climbing, and with the present members showing the right kind of enthusiasm, it is practically assured that the club will put things over.

A meeting of the organization, held in the Chamber of Commerce last night, easily demonstrated the possibilities of such an organization. The enrolled members have swelled the ranks of the club until the 300 mark is plainly in view. The promoters are confident that within a few weeks, their maximum of a thousand will be reached.

There is little question but what the club will be a benefit to the city, and will make for better and cleaner sports. The bouts scheduled for Thursday night of this week will be the test of merit. If they succeed the organization will.

From present indications, the boxing matches will give Lima a definite standing in the sport world.

BAD LEGS MADE MARANVILLE, SAYS BINGO

"A pair of bad legs made Walter Maranville the great shortstop he is," recently declared Bingo Harrigan, an old-time New England baseball man, but now a government employe in St. Louis—"but the bad legs weren't on Maranville," he added, when his hearers looked puzzled.

"No," Harrigan went on to explain, "the bad legs belonged to Frank Connaughton, and you see it was this way:

"Connaughton was playing second for New Bedford and Maranville was playing short, just a kid out of school then. Old Frank couldn't cover much ground, so the Rabbit, timid at first, began to help him out on his territory. Before the season was well along, Maranville was doing most of the work in both positions. If you don't believe it, look up the records, for I think he had about 800 chances in 120 games that season, which was going some.

"So I say it was Connaughton's bad legs that made the Rabbit a great shortstop. If he hadn't had to help Conny out he might never have become the ground coverer he developed into."

Then Harrington went on to tell how he tried to induce Arthur Irwin to buy Maranville. Irwin came to New Bedford on his suggestion, he says, to look the Rabbit over. Old Arthur took one look at the little fellow, according to Harrigan, and said in disgust:

"What? That kid for a major league ball club? Why, he's not big enough to play on a high school nine. Let him grow a couple of years before he plays professional ball."

UMPS SENDS MEN FROM GAME, BUT—

Umpire Ollie Chill of the American league, just about established a record the other day when he chased three-fourths of the Detroit infield. In the seventh inning, with the score a tie at 1 to 1, Chill declared a Boston runner safe at the plate. It was a very close decision. In a moment the diminutive umpire was surrounded by every member of the Detroit club. There are a lot of six-footers on the Tigers and Chill was soon lost entirely from view. What happened while the athletes crowded around him will probably never be known, suffice it to say that when the debris was cleared away, Bush, Young and Heilman had been sent to the showers.

A few second later Manager Hughey Jennings was requested to join his unruly atheletes. At this stage, Jennings, although mad all over, proved that his ever ready wit never deserted him. Because of the several men who had been put out of the game by Chill it was necessary that a number of substitutes be made. Oscar Stanage, one of the Tiger catchers, was away out in left field warming up a pitcher.

As Jennings went to the club house he notified Chill that Stanage was acting manager. Chill in turn was forced to walk several hundred feet into left field to notify Stanage, who was the most surprised individual in the world at the honor so suddenly thurst upon him.

BIG CROWD AT VICTORY ZONE

Damp grounds did not keep the crowd down at the Greater Shessley carnival last night. All amusements were doing a big business.

For the most part the patrons were pleased with the attractions. Most of the shows came up to the standards promised and some were exceptionally good. Especially was this true of the animal show.

Press notices previous to the exposition here guaranteed all attractions suitable for the entire family. No reservation was made, and most of the shows presented last night came up to the promise.

One show offered, however, probably would not appeal to all members of most families, nor should it. This is the one in which the Oriental dance is shown. It is true that the girls are not brought directly before the spectators, but a reflection in a mirror is seen. The result is the same and a dance is done which most fathers and mothers would not care to have their children see.

With this exception the attractions appeared to be entertaining. The carnival is to continue during the week at Water and Elizabeth streets.

Burns, Cuts, Bruises.

San Cura Ointment Relieves Pain, Draws Out Poison and Heals Promptly

There is no better remedy for burns, cuts and bruises than the antiseptic and healing ointment called San Cura.

Every person ought to have a jar on hand; it is the first and best aid to the injured in case of accident, and is the ideal remedy for so many other distressing and painful ailments besides.

For example, it is guaranteed by Hunter's Drug Stores and Butler's South Side Drug Store to relieve itching, bleeding and protruding piles, eczema, tetter, ulcers, salt rheum, boils, carbuncles and pimples, or money back.

In case of old running sores, no matter how long standing, a few poultices of San Cura Ointment will draw out the poison, and leave them in such a thoroughly aseptic condition that they will heal promptly.

We advise every reader to get a jar of San Cura Oinment today, and keep it ready for an accident or emergency that may happen. 30c, 60c and $1.20 a jar at Hunter's Drug Stores and Butler's South Side Drug Store.

San Cura Soap is delightful for shampooing because it is full of antiseptic properties that banish the germs of dandruff and other impurities from the scalp. It removes pimples and blackheads, too. 25 cents a cake at Hunter's Drug Stores and Butler's South Side Drug Store.

If your druggist does not have it send to the Thompson Medical Co., Titusville, Pa.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's hero—Benny Kauff. A mere matter of five hits in five tries and the winning run in that five to four Cub game.

The Braves and Reds were knotted, one all, when the game ended in the fifth. The game is "notted" in the records.

The White Sox know the feelings of the heir to an unexpected legacy. The Browns in a sizzling 1 to 0 game beat the Yanks, thereby dropping first place squarely into the laps of the Chicagoans.

Pinch hitting in the ninth by Myers gave Brooklyn the better of St. Louis, 3 to 2.

Detroit and Washington slugged and ran bases. Detroit got it, 8 to 5.

CHURCH JUBILEE ENDS

Tobacco Habit Dangerous

says Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital. Thousands of men suffering from fatal diseases would be in perfect health today were it not for the deadly drug Nicotine. Stop the habit now before it is too late It's a simple process to rid yourself of the tobacco habit in any form. Just go to any-up-to-date drug store and get some Nicotol tablets; take them as directed and lo; the pernicious habit quickly vanishes. Druggists refund the money if they fail. Be sure to read large and interesting announcement by Doctor Connor soon to appear in this paper. It tells of the danger of nicotine poisoning and how to avoid it. In the meantime try Nicotol tablets; you will be surprised at the result.

FIGHTERS IN FORM FOR BIG BOUT

(By H. C. HAMILTON.)

TOLEDO.—Jess Willard will be fit when he enters the ring with Jack Dempsey next month.

The big champion now weighs less than he did when he fought Frank Moran in New York and is trained to a finer point. This is the opinion of Ike Dorgan, who was Moran's manager at the time of the last big Rickard bout.

Jess has proven a puzzle to critics of his condition. He has had undoubted trouble training his mind to the proper point, and his muscles looked flabby so long as he was doing his daily open air stunt wearing full length tights. Again this afternoon, however, he stepped with only trunks on and it was easy to be seen that Willard's arms, legs and back are reaching that whipcord tautness that denotes long and faithful training.

Down the road about half a mile is Dempsey's camp where the challenger for the heavyweight title has shown daily with nothing to cover his brown, vim body but a pair of trunks. Condition rests with Dempsey. He will be just as good on July 4 as he wants to be so far as physical fitness is concerned. I never can remember having seen a boxer who had reached the superb condition Dempsey is showing. His shoulders, arms and back look more like some one had chiseled the layers of muscles in them. They are drawn tight and move so smoothly there is scarcely a ripple of the brown skin.

WILLARD'S CONDITION BETTER.

There is a great contrast between the two, but at the same time, it must be stated that Willard's condition is much better and will be better still on the day of the bout, than fans have been led to believe.

Jack had been expected to return to boxing today but he laid off on orders from his physician for another day. Tomorrow, chances are he will go a round or more with one of his sparring partners. He needs only a bit of exercise of this sort each day from now on to keep his muscles hardened to the kind of work he will be called upon to do. It would be very easy for him to overdo the work and go into the ring in this state, a thing that can hardly happen under the careful guidance of Jimmy Deforrest and Jack Kearns.

The stiches were taken from Dempsey's eye yesterday but the edges had not healed sufficiently to induce his trainers to allow him to take a chance today. He doesn't need boxing as he needs the other exercises and there is no inclination to rush him.

PREPARE FOR VISITORS.

Toledo is speeding up to receive her fight visitors. The hotels probably will be full and running over several days before the fourth day of the great drought, but some provisions have been made to care for the crowds. There will be a building full of cots to be rented without the tinge of the profiteer. Newspaper men will be given accomodations so far as possible at the St Clair hotel, a building of 100 room, which has been leased for their comfort by \ D Thatcher, President of the Toledo Athletic club. This hotel will be run on a plan, strictly for the visiting scribes of whom there will be as many as 500, with chances for more.

Plans announced tonight by Tex Rickard include the opening of gates at the arena leading to the gallery seats at 9 a. m. Every holder of these pasteboards is expected to be seated within a short time after this. The gates for reserved seat-holders will be opened shortly afterward, for it is probable a great part of the day will be consumed in getting patrons into their seats.

The Toledo police force is none too large for such an emergency as the big fight will provide, so Rickard has engaged a force of 600 discharged soldiers who will act as guards and ushers at the big arena These men will be sworn in as deputies and each will be armed. They will be under the command of former army officers.

Jack Dillon has arrived here. The former giant-killer expects to work briefly with one or another of the big fellows, but his condition is not of the best.

Billy Miske probably will assist Dempsey in the closing days of his training and efforts also are being made to bring Denver Jack Geyer here from Columbus. Geyer is a policeman and small hope is being entertained that he will be able to get a leave. Miske, on the other hand, is now matched for a bout July 3 with Battling Levinsky near here and will be handy.

WILL SAVE 'PLUM'

Legislature Won't Confirm All of Cox's Appointments

COLUMBUS.—Hopeful that the next Ohio governor will be Republican, the present Republican legislature does not intend to rob him of the "plum" awarding job by confirming all the Democratic appointments made late yesterday by Gov. Cox.

That some of Cox's appointments will be confirmed by the senate, was assured by Senator Whittemore, chairman of the senate rules committee, today.

But a hot fight is in prospect over the confirmation of James A. Reynolds, Democrat, Cleveland, as member of the state board of administration, and A. R. Taylor, Findlay, Democrat, who is slated to succeed Clinton Cowen, Republican, as state highway commissioner.

Representatives of the Ohio Good Roads Federation were active in the senate today endeavoring to get the rules committee relieved of further consideration of the appointments and allow them to be threshed out on the floor of the senate. Members of the federation were hopeful of getting Taylor across if they could get the appointments away from the rules committee.

WORSE THAN COOTIES.

BOWLING GREEN, O.—The person who took a suit of clothes from the office of Dr. E. H. Mercer found there were bugs worse than cooties in the seams. Dr. Mercer published a notice that he had been wearing the suit when waiting on patients with contagious diseases. The suit came back.

GERMANS PROTEST AGAINST PEACE TERMS

Zum Henker mit dem Höllen Frieden!

Vast crowd in Wilhelmstrasse near Chancellor's palace, Berlin, protesting against peace terms.

This remarkable picture, just received from Germany shows the immense mass of people that gathered in Wilhelmstrasse, Berlin, to protest against the peace terms given the Germans by the allies. The big sign in the foreground says, "To h— with the d—d peace."

DEFENSE IN FORD SUIT WINS POINT

May Seek to Show Plaintiff An Anarchist, Court Rules

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich.—An important victory went to the defense in the Ford-Tribune million dollar libel suit here today when Judge Tucker ruled that the Tribune may seek to show Henry Ford an anarchist in the way they choose.

F. D. Akerman, reporter of the New York Herald, was telling the court of an interview he had with Ford in New York in April, 1916. Akerman said Ford made the statement that the sinking of the Lusitania and the Sussex was not sufficient to justify our breaking with Germany. He said Ford made the reply of "what in hell were they there for?" when told Americans lost their lives in the sinkings.

Attorney Lucking, for the plaintiff, objected to the testimony bringing in the court's ruling. The judge's ruling was worded thus:

"Whether what he did or said justified the criticism aimed at him in the editorial in question will be the main question in this trial."

The judge said, however, that testimony of Gen. Wood and other military experts of a general character which the defense planned to introduce would not be permitted.

WIFE GETS DIVORCE.

No defense was entered in the hearing of the divorce suit of Mary E. Saunders, in common pleas court Tuesday before Judge Klinger against James C. Saunders. She was awarded the decree on the grounds of gross neglect of duty and habitual drunkeness for a period of three years.

WET MOVE NIPPED

Committee Kills Proposed Beer And Wine Exemption

WASHINGTON.—Repeal of wartime prohibition as it affects light wines and beer was voted down ten to three by the house judiciary committee today.

Efforts were made by Representative Igoe, Missouri, to insert in the prohibition enforcement act now being considered by the committee an amendment exempting light wines and beer and it was upon this that the committee voted.

The action indicated that the committee will table resolutions specifically repealing the act.

Crimson Booklets Uncover Hitherto Unknown Red Band

WASHINGTON.—Activity of a hitherto unknown radical group, extending from the New England manufacturing section to the agricultural regions of the west has been revealed to officials of the department of justice, the federal secret service and other agencies of investigation here, with receipt of copies of a crimson-bound pamphlet containing a "declaration of principles" of the "federation of unions of Russian workers of the United States and Canada."

Translations of the pamphlet show the organization to be one of the most rabid of all the radical societies that have come to the attention of the government investigators.

Headquarters of the organization, it is stated, is in Detroit. Organizers, it is disclosed, have been busy for several weeks among Russians employed in industrial establishments in and around Chicago, Detroit and other large manufacturing centers in the middle west; in munitions and general manufacturing centers in the New England states; in the mills and mines of Pennsylvania and elsewhere thruout the country.

HOME OWNERS

The Savings & Loan Companies of the United States have been the greatest home builders of our Country, by the assistance given those who would build on purchase property; and by the making of home owners they have made the best citizens and patriots.

The Allen County Savings & Loan Company has given just such help to thousands of families in Lima and Allen County.

This Company pays five per-cent interest on deposits and makes loans on first mortgage real estate security at six per-cent interest.

Its resources have steadily increased and now amount to two million dollars.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO—A general inclination to cash in profits, together with an uneasiness on the part of longs, caused a drop in grain futures on the Chicago board of trade today. Commission house in general had corn for sale in the outset. Some who bought corn yesterday at high levels were forced to liquidate. Provisions were lower.

July corn opening at 1.75¾, down ¼ was up ⅝; Sept. corn down ⅞ at the opening 1.70 fell to ½ lower; Dec. corn, opening down 1½ cent was ¼ lower, 1.47¾ at noon.

July oats opening down ¼ at .71½ was still off ¼ at noon. Sept oats opening .71⅝, down ¼ was 1 cent lower. Dec. oats ⅛ off at the opening .72¼ later fell off 1 cent.

DIES BY OWN HAND

Auglaize County Man Hangs Himself in Barn

ST. MARYS — John Jung, 50, a widower, committed suicide by hanging by a rope attached to the rafters of the barn on his premises, east of New Bremen. His lifeless body was found by his son. A note on the kitchen table said his remains would be in the cistern. The clothes he wore were wet. Coroner S. H. Sibert said Jung would have been unable without help to get out of the cistern, once he were inside. Surviving are his son, mother, three brothers, four sisters.
